FRANK NOT AT HOME HOURS ON SATURDAY DECLARES LANFORD

On Night of Murder Prisoner Was Not at Residence, as He Says He Was, States Head of Detective Dept.

WITNESSES WILL SWEAR TO THIS, HE ASSERTS

Leo Frank Swore at Coroner's Inquest That He Reached Home at 7:30 O'Clock and Did Not Leave House.

"I can prove that Frank was not at home during the hours on Saturday night, the night of the murder, that he claimed he was. I will have witnesses to swear to this."

Such was the startling statement by Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford to a reporter for The Constitution Friday night.

Further than this Chief Lanford said he had a great deal of evidence which had not found its way into the papers.

"I will admit, though," he said, "it has been almost as hard to keep evidence out of the papers as it has been to get hold of it in the first place."

Chief Lanford's statement that he can prove Frank was not at home during the hours he says he was is the most important one in regard to the Phagan case that has come from the detective department in some days.

Leo Frank, in his statement at the coroner's inquest, said that he reached home shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday night and did not leave his residence until the following morning, when he accompanied the detectives to the undertaking establishment to identify the body of Mary Phagan. Frank's statement was substantiated by his mother-in-law and father-in-law, who stated that they were engaged in a card game that night and that Frank was in the next room reading a magazine.

SEABOARD WAREHOUSES BURN UP AT SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., May 23.—Three Seaboard Air Line railway delivery warehouses, on River street, were destroyed by fire tonight with all their contents. These warehouses escaped destruction in the disastrous conflagration that destroyed the Merchants and Miners' wharves last February. The contents were high inflammable, and the flames gained headway rapidly after the first blaze was seen at 10:30. Soon after the fire was discovered, an explosion was heard.

The entire fire apparatus of the city fought the flames, but could do little. Fortunately the wind was from the south and toward the harbor, and thus the fire was prevented from spreading. The interior of the warehouses was a seething furnace when the firemen arrived on the scene of action, and it may never be known how the fire originated. The contents of the warehouses consisted of miscellaneous freight, belonging to various shippers and thus it is exceedingly difficult to estimate the loss. It is said that it will be around the $20,000 mark.

PRCELESS TAPESTRIES CUT UP INTO PANTS

Paris, May 23.—The loss of some precious gobelin tapestries, which were presented to the museum at Pau fifty years ago and which were valued at several thousand dollars, has at last been explained by the confession of the caretaker that he and his little boy have been wearing some of the tapestries as lining for their trousers. The caretaker declared he believed the tapestries were worthless, so he took them home to his wife. She selected a woodland scene to turn into garments for him and their son.

MODERATOR J. S. LYONS' TRIBUTE TO ATLANTA.

"Atlanta is unique. She has performed a feat that is truly remarkable in entertaining simultaneously three large Presbyterian assemblies. She has come up to everything expected of her, and has gone far beyond the hopes of many. She has given us the heartiest reception that we have had in years. Everything on the program has been top-notch. In fact, our superlatives are simply exhausted in our attempt to describe the events here, or to express our appreciation to the good people of this city.

"We feel that God has blessed the assemblies in this friendly and constructive gathering of forces, and our prayer is that your city, too, may be blessed by having us in your midst for these ten days. Yes, we shall remember Atlanta a long, long while."

HUSBAND IS MISSING, SAYS MRS. B. N. SPARKS

Wife of Former Atlanta Man Also Disappears and Police Seek Her.

Augusta, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—Between some the young and unusually pretty wife of B. N. Sparks, of Atlanta, told a story of having been deserted by her husband on the streets of Augusta yesterday to a kind-hearted lady who accosted her on the street and inquired of her troubles.

The story she told was that she had been married to Sparks, whom she said was an Atlanta newspaper man, three months; that they had come from her Baltimore home several weeks ago; had left Atlanta, and that she had been left by Sparks on a street corner while Sparks ostensibly went in search of a position.

Fear was expressed by the girl that her husband had been drugged. He had practically no money with him, she later stated. After telling her story at the home of the lady who had spoken to her on the street, the girl disappeared late last night and has not been located, though the police have made an extended search. Effort has been made to locate Sparks, but it is thought he left the city Thursday afternoon.

TWO DIE IN EXPLOSION ON SPEEDY DESTROYER

Steam Pipe of Stewart Blows Out During Test—Rescuer Is Fatally Injured.

San Diego, Cal., May 23.—Richard Curtis Smith, oiler, and H. F. Rock, chief machinist's mate, are dead and Alma Miller, oiler, who risked his life in an attempt to save Rock, is in a dying condition tonight as the result of an explosion on the United States torpedo boat destroyer Stewart today.

The accident occurred 28 miles off port during a speed test, when a steam pipe in the engine room blew out. The engines were turning 300 revolutions a minute and the destroyed was rushing through the water at the rate of 25½ knots an hour. The Stewart is the fastest of the flotilla.

A brother of Miller lives at Idaho Falls, Idaho. Smith's home was at Lolin, Texas, and Rock lived at Moline, Illinois. Rock had just re-enlisted.

Captain M. G. Shonerd says the accident was one for which no one could be blamed. He made an investigation and forwarded a report to Washington.

H. M. FLAGLER'S FUNERAL MARKED BY SIMPLICITY

St. Augustine, Fla., May 23.—Simplicity marked the funeral of Henry M. Flagler today, when his body was laid in a mausoleum in the yard of the Flagler Memorial church.

Thousands from all parts of Florida participated in the services at the church and viewed the body as it lay in state in the rotunda of the Ponce de Leon hotel, which he built. Back of the casket towered the royal palms of Florida, and the bier lay a simple bunch of lilies. The guard of honor was made up of employees of the Florida East Coast railway. The services in the church were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Morgan Ward, assisted by Dr. MacGonical.

Floral emblems were received from John D. Rockefeller and other financiers.

ELDER'S DEATH ENDS ADVENTISTS' SESSION

Washington, May 23.—Today's session of the Seventh Day Adventists world's conference at Takoma Park, Md., came to an abrupt end upon the announcement of the death of Elder G. A. Elder Irwin died suddenly today of heart failure at a local sanitarium where he had gone upon his arrival to attend the conference. All business was laid aside until Sunday morning.

LEADERS OF PARTY DON'T FEAR BOLT ON TARIFF BILL

Despite Dispuieting Rumors, Situation Over Sugar and Wool Schedules Is Considered Favorable.

HOT FIGHT EXPECTED IN DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Reported That Senator Walsh Might Join Ransdell and Thornton in Vote Against Underwood Measure.

Washington, May 23.—Wool and sugar, the stumbling blocks of the tariff, held the attention of senate finance subcommittees and senators in general today, the legislative air being filled with rumors of contemplated changes and alliances and counter rumors of a further tightening of the administration forces for free wool and free sugar in three years. Great interest was attached to a public statement made by Senator Walsh, of Montana, condemning the proposition to put wool and sugar on the free list, which gave rise to a report that he might join with Senators Ransdell and Thornton, of Louisiana, and vote against the bill.

In that case the senate democratic majority being only six the vote on the tariff bill would be a tie, necessitating the vote of Vice President Marshall to pass it. Should this develop, there are some democrats who believe that Senator Poindexter, of Washington, the only avowed progressive in the senate would vote with them on the bill. This would give leeway for another democrat to desert in the final vote.

Situation Favorable.

Administration leaders declared today that the situation relating to the much disputed schedules looked very favorable for the Underwood bill, but they look forward to an interesting session in the party caucus when the southern and western representatives will have an opportunity to make a determined struggle against free wool and free sugar. A rumor that several of them would unite to remain out of the caucus was denied by party leaders though one of them declared that he would not blame Senator Walsh should he determine to stay out if it became apparent that the caucus would not yield on sugar and wool.

William Whitman, always a leader of the woolen interests in tariff consideration, had an interesting hour with Senator Stone's subcommittee, attacking the woolen manufactures schedule. Mr. Whitman declared that the proposed duties on wool manufactures were 30 per cent less than the rates in the Wilson tariff act, while he said was supposed to be a free trade bill. Senator James urged that economic conditions in production justified a difference of 10 per cent at this time as compared to conditions when the Wilson law was enacted.

Asked if free raw wool would not prove beneficial to this interests, Mr. Whitman said it might eventually. At present, he said, his company had on hand a large supply of raw wool bought under tariff rates and that he would be at a disadvantage in working this off while other manufacturers were buying and manufacturing with wool purchased on a free of duty basis.

He declared that foreign manufacturers had enormous amounts of woolen goods stacked away ready to put on the American market as soon as the proposed bill became a law.

Julius Forstmann, of Passaic, N. J., also appealed for an extension of the time when the schedule should become effective. He urged that the raw wool schedule should not take effect until three months after the passage of the act, and the duties on woolen manufactures six months after in order to give the trade an opportunity to work off goods manufactured under present tariff conditions.

Beet Sugar Interests.

Henry T. Oxnard, recognized as the head of the delegation representing the beet sugar interests, appeared before Senator Walsh's subcommittee to protest against the proposed sugar schedule. He presented the case of the beet sugar men at length, maintaining that free sugar would be a blow to the industry in this country.

An important change in the bill as it passed the house, it was reported today, has been made by Senator Stone's committee in the metal schedule. They are declared to have decided to put pig iron and ferro-manganese on the free list. The Underwood bill levies a 10 per cent duty on pig iron and 15 per cent on ferro-manganese, used in the manufacture of steel. An argument over these rates developed in the house, Majority Leader Underwood and Representa-

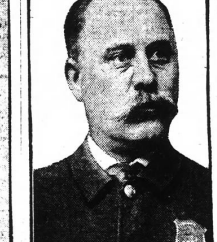
COLONEL THOMAS FELDER.

JAMES L. BEAVERS, Chief of Police



NEWPORT LANFORD, Chief of Detectives

Career of A. S. Colyar Reads Like Some Story In the Arabian Nights

Nashville, Tenn., May 23.—(Special.) The criminal career of A. S. Colyar reads like a story from the Arabian Nights. Probably no man in Tennessee has imposed so successfully upon the public and has escaped so lightly.

The son of Colonel A. S. Colyar, in his day one of the most prominent citizens of Nashville, and a grandson of ex-Governor Albert S. Marks, with a family connection that includes many of the aristocrats of this section, he has been exceptionally fortunate in escaping the law, although on various occasions he has done time.

He has probably been arrested more than a score of times, and for years Alex Barthuil, special agent for the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, did little else but follow his trail.

Two of Colyar's exploits stand out above the others. The first of these was his impersonation of the son of the late John G. Carlisle. Having forged a check on his father, at that time the controlling spirit of the old Nashville American, Colyar went west and finally drifted into Mexico. A newspaper reporter boarded the train and inquired for the son of John G. Carlisle. As the latter was not aboard, Colyar's quick mind saw an opportunity for a coup. He introduced himself as Carlisle, was received at Mexico City with great eclat, and a big dinner was given in his honor, which was attended by the president of Mexico and other notables. The following night Colyar gave a theater party, and later informed the American ambassador that he was embarrassed by the failure of funds to arrive, and secured from him the sum of $10,000. He went out to take a smoke and never came back. Later he returned $7,500 of the money, mailing it from a point in Florida.

On his return here he stopped over at McMinnville, Tenn., and stole a mule, which he rode into Nashville, selling the animal on the Haymarket.

Through his father's influence he was sent to the Middle Tennessee Insane asylum. He fired the asylum and escaped, a number of persons being burned to death. Colyar rode a horse to death in a mad race to Nashville to warn the fire department.

Colyar's other notable adventure was in regard to the famous Mullinax case, in New York. A pickpocket named Raymond had been arrested here and sent to the penitentiary, escaping a few hours later. Colyar got into communication with the elder Mullinax, who was very wealthy, and convinced him that Raymond and the chief witness for the prosecution were th same. H secured money from Mullinax and endeavored to have the witness returned to the penitentiary here, having secured requisition papers from Governor McMillin. The fraud leaked out here and a wire caused the arrest of Colyar in New York. He was sentenced to Sing Sing.

MAYOR WOODWARD REPORTED CAUGHT BY THE DICTAGRAPH SEEKING POLICE EVIDENCE

The little dictagraph, cunningly hidden in Detective Colyar's room in the Williams House No. 2, is said to have caught a conversation between Mayor James G. Woodward, Secretary G. C. Febuary, of the detective department, and Edward Miles, Wednesday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock.

Detective Colyar, who drew Attorney Thomas B. Felder into the conspiracy, was also present at the interview. Colyar sent Miles to the private office of Mayor Woodward, in the Empire building, with an invitation that he examine affidavits which Colyar alleged to have in his possession charging police graft.

Mayor Woodward admitted to The Constitution, Friday night, that he went to the room designated by Miles. He charges that Colyar tried to induce him to agree to pay $1,000 for certain information, in documentary form, which Colyar declared was sufficient to convict the heads of the police department of corruption in receiving money for protections from disorderly houses.

Mayor Had No Money to Give.

"They were the only ones who spoke about money," Mayor Woodward said. "I told them that if they were looking for money from me I had none to give, but I suggested that if they would make out a list to show just what evidence they had to give there would be no trouble getting up the money to extend the investigation."

Detective Colyar visited Mayor Wood-

BRIBERY CHARGES FALSE DECLARES COL. FELDER; CALLS THEM "FRAME-UP"

Affidavits and Alleged Dictagraph Record Are Made Public, Accusing Prominent Lawyer of Offering Bribe of $1,000 to Secretary Febuary, of Police Department, to Secure Affidavit Made for Police by J. W. Coleman, Stepfather of Mary Phagan, in Regard to Felder's Connection With Case.

ALLEGATIONS ARE MADE TO FORESTALL A PROBE OF POLICE, SAYS FELDER

Mayor Woodward Also Dictagraphed, According to Report—Admits He Was Called Into Conference by A. S. Colyar, Who Offered Him, He Says, Evidence That the Police Department Is Giving Protection to Disorderly Houses in Atlanta—"I've Done My Duty, It's Up to Grand Jury," Says Lanford.

Developments came thick and fast yesterday following the publication of affidavits, charging that Colonel Thomas B. Felder—the man who freed Charles Morse, and who used the dictagraph on Governor Cole Blease, of South Carolina—had himself been dictagraphed, and had made an attempt to secure an affidavit in the Mary Phagan murder case now held by the police department, through bribing Secretary February by the offer of $1,000.

Stinging counter charges that the Atlanta detective department is reeking with graft and corruption were hurled at Chief Newport Lanford by Colonel Felder, who asserts that the affidavits now in the possession of Lanford are perjured and the charges prompted by the desire to forestall an investigation of the department.

MY DUTY HAS BEEN DONE AND IT'S UP TO GRAND JURY, SAYS LANFORD

"I have proved Felder to be an attempted briber," said the chief. "My duty has been done. It's now up to the grand jury to take action."

It also developed that Mayor Woodward has himself been dictagraphed, this instrument being used on the mayor during the course of a conversation at the Williams house, held by the mayor, Secretary February, of police department, A. S. Colyar, who worked up the affidavits against Felder, and Ed Miles, head of the Miles detective bureau.

Felder says he has viewed with his own eyes a police "graft" list, containing the names of owners of disorderly houses in the city, which resorts are given police protection in return for money. This, he said, was shown him by G. C. February, stenographer for Chief Lanford, right hand man of that official.

Chief Beavers would not commit himself on the situation that has developed by the charges of his detective chief and the counter accusations by Colonel Felder. He seemed pleased, however, over the result reputed to have been obtained by Lanford, and said that he later would fully express his opinion.

"I cannot talk at this present time," he stated. "I would not think it best."

Felder Promises Probe; People Tired, He says.

Colonel Felder's announced exposure of the detective and police department would be early, he said, and exhaustive. He will have the support of a wide circle of business men and civic authorities, he declared, who have tired of tolerating the situation he accuses of existing. The results, he declares, will startle the state.

Police headquarters is in a ferment as are city hall and political circles. Colonel Felder stated at 10 o'clock last night that hundreds of telephone calls from business men and influential residents had brought him assurance of support. Chief Lanford was also assured of support from police and other circles.

Felder Wanted Affidavit, He Says.

According to the charges made by the detective department, Colonel Felder was anxious to get hold of an affidavit secured by the police from J. W. Coleman, father of the dead girl, in which he denied that he had employed Mr. Felder to represent him in the investigation of the Phagan murder, declared he was satisfied with the police, and declared that Colonel Felder had made every effort to secure his consent for him to handle the investigation of the case and had promised to do so without cost to Coleman.

Lanford accuses the attorney of having striven to bribe the chief's stenographer, G. C. Febuary, with $1,000 for the theft of this evidence. Affidavits supporting Lanford's charges have been made and published. Strong denial is made of the accusation in full by Colonel Felder.

A. S. Colyar, Jr., an adventurer of national note, who is said to have been connected with the Atlanta attorney in his Blease investigation, is an affiant to a document declaring that he was with Felder when he approached the detective chief's stenographer regarding the theft of the Phagan evidence in return for bribe money.

Evidence that the attorney was lured to a room in the Williams house No. 1, at Forsyth and Walton streets, Wednesday afternoon, and trapped into a conversation with Colyar and Febuary, which was reported by a dictagraph, has been published in stenographic report of the alleged conversation. Felder denies the conversation, averring he was in the room only five minutes.

Chief Lanford asserted to a reporter for The Constitution last night that premature publication of his bribery charges had foiled an effort he was making to catch the well-known attorney in the act of giving money to the man in possession of the Mary Phagan evidence.

It had been planned, he said, to have Felder meet Feburary and Colyar at some point either in or near Decatur—out in DeKalb county, where he would be given speedy trial and be dealt with more severely. He had partly agreed to the meeting. Feburary would likely have met him there this coming Saturday. Colyar, however, grew mad over the delay. He did not agree to the idea of carrying the scheme to the extent of bribery. He thought that the case, in its present shape, was ripe enough for prosecution.

"We had a slight tiff with this man. As a result, he tipped off the paper which published the story, and our plans were rent to pieces thereafter. The grand jury now has it before it. It is a case for them to act. For the present, I'm through. I've done my work. It's now up to them."

How Lanford Got Colyar.

Lanford says he obtained the services of Colyar through Headquarters Detective Robert Z. Osburn, a friend of Colyar's. Colyar was visiting Osburn at police station several days ago, said the chief, and showing a decided interest in the Mary Phagan mystery, hinted that he could be of valuable aid in the investigation.

He was visited personally by Chief Lanford, the latter stated, and asked to lend assistance in the case. Later, Lanford declares, he heard rumors of Felder's alleged connection with the suspected man's defense. Colyar, he knew, was intimately attached to Felder during his dispensary investigation in South Carolina.

The detective chief says Felder, through a source which he will not reveal, endeavored to become acquainted with some one connected with the detective department who was opposed to Lanford. Feburary, he says, was approached on the deal of obtaining all the Mary Phagan evidence possessed by the detectives.

Feburary, according to Chief Lanford, went immediately to his chief, asking instructions. Lanford ordered him to confer with Felder regarding the turning over of the evidence, and to accept any terms named by the attorney, the chief says.

Willing to Take Bribe.

"I told Feburary," Lanford asserted, "to inform Felder that he would be willing to sell the Phagan evidence, and that he was sore on me because I forced him to work overtime too often, and did not pay him enough. Also to tell him that, beside the chief, no one beside himself was able to obtain the evidence, as it was locked in the department vault.

"Colyar, as he once was a confidant of Felder's, was employed by him to do. He was to assist Felder, to be a kind of go-between for both Feburary and the lawyer. Everything was arranged. The conference was held in Colyar's room in the Williams house, and a meeting was planned to bribe Feburary for the desired papers.

Given Statement Sunday.

Caustic and bitter is the attorney's reply. He declares that on Sunday he will issue to the Atlanta press a full and complete denial and says he will submit affidavits supporting his charges of corruption in the police department. They have been in his possession, he asserts, for some time, and he had been withholding them for his planned probe into the police department.

Admitting that he went to the Williams house on the afternoon on the accused bribery attempt, Felder says he visited the place only for the purpose of obtaining "graft" evidence from Feburary, who had summoned him there. When the stenographer and adventurer asked $1,000 for their possession, as stated by the lawyer, he departed.

Colonel Felder in Phagan Case.

Ever since the Phagan story "broke," Colonel Felder has been a dominant figure in the investigation. He has a contract showing he was retained by two prominent business men of the Bellwood community. Stories have been circulated for several days that he was secretly in the employ of Frank. His answer to these rumors is that they were circulated by police detectives to distract attention from their practice of destroying Phagan evidence which would, have been damaging to Frank's defense.

The names of Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey, Mayor James G. Woodward, Police Commissioner Carlos Mason and Charles C. Jones, proprietor of the Rex saloon, appear in portions of the alleged sworn dictagraph record attributed to Colonel Felder. He said to a Constitution reporter that during all time of the five-minute interview he held with Colyar and Feburary he did not mention the name of any of these men.

Already civic and reform organizations have begun preparing plans for investigations that will result. But even with this new situation, the work of ferreting out the Mary Phagan mystery goes vigorously forward.

The Pinkertons and headquarters detectives announced new evidence Friday which is published elsewhere. Colonel Felder stated last night that Chief Tobie, the Burns man, will not be hampered any whatever with the new turn of affairs, but will continue his operations as industriously as before. The grand jury resumes its investigation this morning at 10 o'clock.

The dictagraph, with which Lanford charges the attorney was trapped, was ingeniously installed in Room 32 of the William house. It was concealed behind the dresser—that is, the transmitter—and the wires ran through the keyhole of the door connecting Room 32 with Room 34. In this latter apartment Georgie W. Gentry, connected with the Southern Bell Telephone company, a shorthand expert, sat, it is charged, with the receivers clapped over his ears.

What Colonel Felder is accused of having desired more than other papers locked in Lanford's vault, was a document purporting to have been attested to by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coleman, parents of Mary Phagan, who testified to the effect that they had not employed the attorney, and had not sanctioned his connection with the investigation. Colyar, in an affidavit, swears that Felder had offered him $1,000 to steal this document.

Blease to Make Statement.

Typical of the militant reputation he bears, Governor Blease has notified The Constitution's Augusta correspondent that on today he will unloose caustic opinions of Colonel Felder, and tell the public of dealings he declared he had with the Atlanta lawyer during the South Carolina dispensary controversy. It will be recalled that Blease some time ago issued warrants for Felder that if he ever ventured on Carolina ground, he would be arrested and tried for mispractice to which he is alleged to have resorted in the dispensary investigation.

Branding the adventurer Colyar as a crook, liar, degenerate and character of long criminal record, Colonel Felder says that during the investigation in Carolina he was visited by the man, who offered to place in his hands valuable evidence. Upon investigating Colyar's record, Felder says he found it so unsavory that he did not care to use him in any form, but suggested that he display the evidence, and if it were available, he would purchase it.

Colyar, Felder states, procured three affidavits from women. The signature of each was signed on a sheet of parchment detached from the substance of the document. Upon investigation, Mr. Felder says he revealed that the papers were false, and that the signatures had been attached to an agreement submitted by Colyar to take possession of immense estate bequeathed the affiants by deceased relatives of whom they had never heard.

"He is a perjurer, a crook, a scoundrel," blazed the attorney in speaking of the man. He thrives on such crookedness as he is striving to practice on me."

Colyar's Offer to Felder.

Accusing Colyar of being a character with a criminal record, a crook, a blackmailer and a perjurer, Felder declares that Colyar came to him several days ago to offer to obtain the reported police "graft" list for Felder's proposed exposure of the detective department.

"I knew he was crooked and irresponsible," said the attorney. "I had dealt with him during my dispensary investigation in South Carolina. I discovered there that he was crooked. I told him so. He said that Chief Lanford had offered to employ him to help 'frame-up' against Felder, and that Lanford intended performing the 'frame-up.'

"It was to see the "graft" list that I went to his room in the Williams house. He and Feburary showed two of them to me—both in the handwriting of Beavers and one of Lanford. I recognized a number of names. They offered to sell both to me for $1,000. I refused them. I did not even take them, but referred them to Mr. Miles, of the bureau of investigation, who I thought could use them.

"Both Feburary and Colyar declared they did not want to deal with anyone but me alone. I did not stay in the room more than five minutes. When they persisted in urging me to purchase the 'graft' lists, I left the place. I do not believe they had a dictagraph. The manufacturers of that instrument would not rent one to such irresponsible persons—to blackmailers, in fact.

Will Expose Detectives.

"I am going to expose the detective department, and I won't be long in doing it," Colonel Felder added. "It is redolent with vice, and graft and corruption. Atlanta has suffered the situation long enough. It is now entirely beyond endurance. The people will tolerate it no longer.

"Lanford knew of my plans along this line. He knew I was going to reveal him a grafter, a viper. That's why he wanted to forestall my efforts. He could conceive of no better way than this absurd mode of ringing in a crook to fake up a lot of perjured evidence and swear falsely to a lot of crude affidavits.

"I have already seen his 'graft' list. I know most of its contents, and will soon investigate it that which I do not know. I could have bought it for $1,000, had I been the 'buying kind.' The time has come when he and Beavers can no longer flatten out graft. I'm going to put an end to it."

Colonel Felder said that his primary intentions were not to expose the detective department in the "third degree protection" system, but to its conduct pertaining to the Phagan murder. Chief Lanford, he declared, had been paid by forces representing the suspected Frank, to destroy damaging evidence against him, and was daily pursuing methods to this end.

Determined on Full Exposure.

"That was my first plan," he said. "Later, when Lanford opposed me so vigorously, I became determined to make full exposure of his malpractice. He got wind of it. Probably through Colyar, I'm not sure. He learned of it some way. His job was in jeopardy, his job and reputation in danger. He had to employ some means of interesting me. And he tried this. What a miserable, stinking farce he has made of himself and department.

He also declared that he had positive evidence that Lanford and a number of headquarters detectives did not been moving to frustrate the work of Chief C. W. Tobie, the William J. Burns man, who is investigating the Phagan mystery. The sleuths, he said, had been already to a large number of witnesses, cautioning them not to talk to the Burns men, intimating that he was secretly operating for Frank.

"Another thing which convinces me Lanford is employed by Frank," said Felder, "is a purported confession shown me by Colyar and Feburary in the former's room in the Williams house. The confession, they said, had been extorted from the negro. Conally, whom Lanford has been holding illegally ever since his arrest. Both Feburary and Colyar admitted that the confession was forced from the negro and was untrue, but had been made to escape the torture to which the detectives had subjected him.

"Destroying Evidence."

"What I wanted from Colyar, and the prime reason of my visit to the Williams house, was to procure evidence to the effect that Lanford and his detectives were destroying damaging evidence to Frank. This confession, purporting to be from the Connally negro, was one of the first documents I was shown. Feburary declared he had formulated it, himself, and that, although it was false, it had been extracted from the negro and would be used by the detectives."

That James W. Coleman, stepfather of Mary Phagan had been forced into signing the affidavit accredited to him, was declared by Mr Felder, who stated that a number of headquarters detectives, including Chief Lanford, had gone to both him and his wife, and told them that if they did not deny their association with Felder, they would quit work on the investigation of their daughter's murder, and leave her death unavenged.

"I was not employed by either Mr. or Mrs. Coleman," Mr. Felder said. "They only sanctioned my connection with the case. My real retainers are twelve or more substantial residents of the Bellwood neighborhood, in which Mary Phagan lived. They offered me $500. I accepted, and now possess a contract signed by A. C. McCall and G. H. Bradley, two prominent business men of the Bellwood community.".

Implored to Take Case.

The contract was shown by a Reporter for The Constitution. It held the signature of A. C. McCall and G. H. Bradley. Mr. Felder named twelve, or more, men of Bellwood, who, he said, had implored him to come into the Mary Phagan case. He also stated that a number of ladies of the city, all of whom were socially conspicuous, had donated money for his retainence.

Colonel Felder's proposed probe of the police and detective department, he said, will be relentless and immediate. He will have the grand jury declared, of many of the city's leading business men and capitalists. Declaring that the practices of the detective department are glaring and rotten, through and through, he intimates that Atlanta is unconsciously fostering a police "system" as foul as that practiced in New York before the famous Rosenthal murder.

Affidavits to Be Used.

Affidavits from keepers of disorderly houses, it is said, are possessed by persons in sympathy with the proposed exposure. These documents, according to reports, are to the effect that the resorts operated by the affiants are afforded police protection for graft money. It is even said that a scale of prices are in effect. Colonel Felder states this is a substance of his talk with Feburary, an attache of the detective department for the past five years.

LEADERS OF PARTY DON'T FEAR BOLT

tive Palmer, of Pennsylvania, maintaining they should not be freelisted because they were a good source of revenue. The senate subcommittee is said to have reversed this decision, maintaining that they both are products of the United States Steel corporation and a rival steel manufacturer, and should be on the free list for that reason.

B. A. Levette, of the New York Merchants' association, and S. Christy Mead, of the New York Merchants' exchange, appeared before Senator Williams' subcommittee in opposition to the amendment suggested by Assistant Attorney General Dennison and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis, which would give the secretary of the treasury power to proclaim general import values. They urged that if such an amendment is accepted the rates should be proclaimed from day to day based upon the conditions of the foreign market.

Coleman Affidavit Which Police Say Felder Wanted

State of Georgia, Fulton County: The affiant, J. W. Coleman and wife, citizens of Atlanta, Ga., who reside at 146 Lindsay street.

The affiant is the stepfather of Mary Phagan, deceased, the child who was foully murdered by a hellish brute on April 26, 1913.

The affiant is in the employ of the City of Atlanta in the Sanitary department.

The affiant, while at the police station during the coroner's inquest, the next day he does not remember, was approached by a man somewhat under the influence of liquor, and said to the affiant, "I am working for the law firm of T. B. Felder, and I would like to have you go to his office, as he wants to see you, and I advise you to employ him." Affiant said, "No, I won't go to his office." The Piker then said, "will you talk to Colonel Felder if I bring him here?" whereupon the affiant agreed to see him. He went off and came back in a few minutes with Felder. Colonel Felder then said, "I want you to employ me to prosecute this case, it will not cost you a cent, as certain people have promised to pay me my fee, but I have got to have your consent to the employment before I can get into the coroner's jury." The affiant told him he did not want to employ him and did not want to have anything to do with him, as the affiant did not know him and had never seen him before that day, and affiant did not employ him, nor did the affiant's wife employ him, and the only information the affiant ever had that he was employed was what he read in the newspapers.

Affiant has many good neighbors, and he appreciates their sympathy for him and his broken-hearted wife, but he cannot see how they would come to employ Colonel Felder without his knowledge and consent.

A man met the affiant on the street and offered him one dollar to go upon the fee of this astute counsel, but he declined to accept it and told the party he had not employed Felder.

Affiant is thoroughly satisfied with the great work done by Chief of Police Beavers and Chief of Detectives Lanford and the able men working under them, as he believes, as thousands of others do in Atlanta, that they have the real murderer in jail, and the affiant cannot reconcile himself to the conduct of Colonel Felder, who is posing as a prosecuting attorney, and wanting $5,000 from the people of the city as set out in the afternoon's papers, to bring a noted detective from Chicago, and in the press of the city, large amounts have been subscribed by people the affiant does not believe are anxious to prosecute the men under arrest.

The affiant means no reflection on the press of the city and the citizens of Atlanta who are in favor of justice and fair play. Affiant will ever appreciate the sympathy that has been shown him and his family by Atlanta people, and he asks them if they have any money to spend to punish the murderer of his sweet, innocent child, to stand behind the Atlanta police department and let no one mislead them.

SOLICITOR GENERAL DORSEY TALKS OF THE BRIBE CHARGE

A merry laugh was the first comment made by Solicitor General Hugh Dorsey when told of the reported dictagraph evidence in which Colonel T. B. Felder is quoted as saying that he could control the mayor, the criminal court judge and Hugh Dorsey.

Solicitor Dorsey was at his home at the time, endeavoring to find rest and recreation after the morning's work of placing the evidence in the Phagan case before the grand jury. Hugh Dorsey, Jr., was in his arms at the time and from the lad's continuous efforts to express his joy in billing and cooing, he was as happy at having his father with him as the solicitor was to be at home and away from the strain of work in the case for which he has devoted his entire time for weeks.

"Why there is no use for me to deny any such remarks as those attributed to Colonel Felder, and I certainly do not wish to express my opinion in the matter. In fact, I know nothing whatever of the affair except what is generally known to the public.

"Colonel Felder never expressed to me any intention of taking steps to attempt to show graft or fraud on the part of the city police or detectives," replied the solicitor when asked if during his conferences in regard to the Phagan case, Colonel Felder had made any expression in regard to the present situation.

"The latest conference I had with Colonel Felder was at his home on my home last Sunday night to confer upon the Phagan case. As I announced publicly some time ago, I worked with him as I have done with others interested in probing the matter. I received what information I could from them, but kept my own theories and results of investigation to myself.

"As far as I know, there had never been any disturbing force in operation between the city detectives and Colonel Felder," he replied to a query insisted. "I have no connection with the affair whatever it may be, and I don't care to be drawn into it. I want to devote my entire time and thought to the Phagan case and to securing a conviction of the guilty parties."

A. S. Colyar Makes Answer To Charges of Col. Felder

A. S. Colyar, when seen last night by a representative of The Atlanta Constitution, gave out the following written statement:

"I have just read Colonel T. B. Felder's card in the bedtime edition of The Atlanta Georgian, in which he sees fit to call me, behind my back, a liar and a crook. Knowing the colonel as I do, and as his intimate friends know, he is a past grand master on explanations. The Atlanta Journal, in its Friday afternoon home edition, published every detail of the case, with the sworn statements of Mr. Feburary, Mr. Osburn, Mr. Gentry, Mr. Surles and myself, and I do not care at the present time to dignify this astute politician with any further controversy."

Chief Beavers Not Surprised At Col. Felder's Statements

"I am not surprised," said Chief Beavers when asked to give an expression on Colonel T. B. Felder's alleged statement regarding graft and immorality in the detective department. "I am not surprised in the least.

"However, I don't think it would be very nice of him to have me ridden through the streets naked, as he is reported to have threatened. Besides being not nice, he might lay himself liable to prosecution for public indecency."

Further than this, Chief Beavers maintained the sphinx-like attitude which has characterized him ever since a certain memorable occasion when he closed the red light district.

JACKSONVILLE MAN NEW HEAD OF U. C. T.

R. L. Wallis and A. L. Brook, of Atlanta, Also Elected Officers at Columbus Convention.

Columbus, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—The two days' session of the Georgia-Florida division of the United Commercial Travelers came to a close tonight with a largely attended ball at the Hotel Racine.

At the business session today officers for the ensuing year were elected, and Pensacola, Fla., was selected as the next meeting place, over Gainesville, Ga., the only other contestant for the place. Jacksonville, Fla., was expected to ask for the next convention, but did not. The date for the meeting was not fixed.

The officers elected were as follows: R. B. Cole, Jacksonville, past grand councelor; E. D. Weir, Athens, grand counselor; J. M. Kelly, Tampa, grand junior counselor; R. L. Wallis, Atlanta, grand secretary; A. L. Brook, Atlanta, grand treasurer; W. L. Stern, Savannah, grand conductor; M. J. Heinoerg, Pensacola, grand page; J. M. Giddens, Columbus, grand sentinel.

The following executive committeemen, were elected for a term of two years: G. P. Byrd, of Atlanta, and J. W. Bates, of Macon. T. B. Lewis, of Atlanta, and D. K. Ugleman, of Pensacola, were named as representatives to the supreme council.

nOe-Cent Postage Indorsed.

The grand council adopted a resolution indorsing the bill now before congress introduced by Congressman Partlett, of Georgia, to give to the people 1-cent fatter postage. The grand council, by vote, became a member of the "national One-Cent Postage association."

A resolution was also adopted indorsing the bill in congress introduced by Senator Burton, providing for changing the date for presidential and congressional elections from the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, to the first Monday in November. The traveling men assert that 900,000 commercial travelers would be more or less affected by such a change; that it would make it easier for this number to vote in these elections.

A committee, of which W. R. Webb, of Atlanta, is chairman, was appointed to draft an amendment to the present hotel law in Georgia providing for the creation of a state hotel inspector.

Among the interesting features of the day was the parade late this afternoon of the Bahmen of Bagdol. About one hundred took part, many of them in full regalia, while others wore very fancy and ludicrous costumes.

FELDER IS CHARGED WITH BRIBE OFFER FOR PHAGAN PAPERS

City Detective Department Holds Statements Alleging Attorney Made Attempt to Secure Coleman Affidavit.

SAY FELDER OFFERED $1,000 FOR THE PAPER

Report of Conversation Between Col. Felder, Secretary Febuary and A. S. Colyar Taken Down by Gentry.

Colonel Thomas B. Felder—the man who brought the dictagraph south and used it with such telling effect in the Blease investigation in South Carolina—has himself been dictagraphed, and a charge of bribery worked up against him, according to statements and evidence which the Atlanta city detective department declares they have obtained.

Charges are made that Colonel Felder offered a bribe of $1,000 in order to have affidavits in the Phagan murder case stolen from the safe of Chief of Detectives N. A. Lanford, and that he offered immunity to G. C. Febuary, the chief's secretary, if he would make the theft.

The charges are backed up by a detailed stenographic report of an alleged conversation which took place in a room of the Williams house No. 2 last Wednesday afternoon, between Colonel Felder, Secretary G. C. Febuary and A. S. Colyar, the report having been made in an adjoining room by the aid of a dictagraph, according to a sworn statement by George M. Gentry, who made the expert stenographic report, and who is a nephew of Colonel W. T. Gentry, president of the Southern Bell and Cumberland Telephone company.

Affidavit Says Felder Approached Colemans.

The affidavit which the detectives declare Felder offered $1,000 to gain is a statement signed by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coleman, the stepfather and mother of Mary Phagan. In this statement they declare that Colonel Felder approached them and offered to prosecute the case against Frank for them, saying it would not cost them a cent.

"Affiant told him he did not want to employ him, and did not want to have anything to do with him," reads the affidavit. It goes on to explain that Mr. and Mrs. Coleman are satisfied with the work of the Atlanta police department.

"Affiant is thoughly satisfied with the great work one by Chief of Police Beavers and Chief of Detectives Lanford, and the able men working under them, and he believes, as thousands of others do in Atlanta, that they have the real murderer in jail and the affiant cannot reconcile himself to the conduct of Colonel Felder, who is posing as a prosecuting attorney and wanting $5,000 from the people of the city to bring a noted detective here."

Febuary and Colyar Swear to Bribe Offer.

In addition to the sworn dictagraph report, the city detectives declare they have in their possession an affidavit sworn to by G. C. Febuary, Chief Lanford's secretary, and A. S. Colyar, the private investigator with Febuary at the alleged interview, in which both testify to the offer of a big bribe by Colonel Felder on Monday night at Colonel Felder's office in the Equitable building.

Colyar and Febuary declare that Felder told them to "go and get the evidence," saying that he wanted to impeach both Beavers and Lanford.

In another affidavit, A. S. Colyar declares that after this conversation on Monday night he telephoned to the home of Colonel T. B. Felder, on Howell Mill road, telling him he had received a new bit of evidence, and receiving Colonel Felder's reiterated statement that he would pay $1,000 in cash for the Coleman affidavit and other papers bearing on the case. Colyar says that Colonel Felder was then nearly anxious to obtain evidence that was derogatory to Beavers and Lanford.

The complete dictagraph report of the conversation of Wednesday night, as sworn to by the expert stenographer, George W. Gentry, is as follows:

Dictagraph Report Is Published in Detail.

Following is the dictagraph record alleged to have been made from the conversation at Williams House No. 2 34-36 North Forsyth street, Atlanta, Georgia, Wednesday, May 21, 1913, between Thomas B. Felder, G. C. Febuary and A. S. Colyar.

A. S. Colyar: I have been stopping here off and on for five years.

Thomas B. Felder: When I moved here, 22 years ago, this was the finest hotel in Atlanta.

A. S. Colyar: Well, tell me, I thought you told me the other day that you became solicitor general six months after you were 21. And I was reading the statutes and it stated the solicitor general had to be 25 years old.

Thomas B. Felder: No. The statute has been changed since I was made solicitor.

A. S. Colyar: The statute stated that he must be 25 years of age and must be an attorney at the bar of Georgia for three years in good standing, and must take an oath that he will prosecute all without fear or favor.

Thomas B. Felder: Yes.

A. S. Colyar: How old are you, Colonel?

Thomas B. Felder: I will be 49 in October. How old are you?

A. S. Colyar: I will be 47 next February.

G. C. Febuary: Mr. Colyar looks a good deal older than you.

Thomas B. Felder: Well! I have an appointment with another gentleman at 3:30.

A. S. Colyar: Well. There's the man you want to talk to.

G. C. Febuary: You know this is pretty ticklish business—

A. S. Colyar: I told him last night that they could put him in the penitentiary for stealing these papers—

Thomas B. Felder: Penitentiary. Well. They can't put you in the penitentiary as long as Hugh Dorsey is solicitor general.

G. C. Febuary: Well. You see, I am the chief's stenographer and I write all these affidavits.

Thomas B. Felder: Can this young man be trusted all right.

A. S. Colyar: Absolutely. I would trust him anywhere on earth. Who is Fellow Miles?

Thomas B. Felder: Well, you see Miles is in the bureau of investigation, and he has three or four experts in the way of investigators and things like that.

Now, what I say to you is strictly confidential. Day before yesterday I saw Woodward.

A. S. Colyar: You saw Woodward, Monday?

Thomas B. Felder: Yes. Woodward says now it is all right for you to get the papers, and we will pay you for them.

Promised Evidence Against Beavers.

Thomas B. Felder: I will tell you what I have been doing for the last month. I have been investigating certain things for this company. Mr. Miles works for, and I called on the mayor Monday afternoon, with C. C. Jones, and I told the mayor I could get the evidence on these grafting Beavers and Lanford, and the mayor told me to see Mr. Miles. That he had been working on it for a month. To show you how conscientious Mr. Miles is, although he has been in my office nearly every day he has never mentioned it to me. The mayor also wanted me to prosecute them in the courts, as attorney, and I told him that I had my hands full. So I would help get up the evidence." Miles came over yesterday afternoon and I had a conference with him about an hour or two and without calling any names, I told him that I could get the evidence. But I said this young man doesn't want to lose his position. Well, he says, tell him for me that I will give him a position today just as good as the one he has. Mayor Woodward said to get him the evidence and he would be glad to prosecute this bunch.

A. S. Colyar: Well, I tell you, he wouldn't. I tell you that this thing will just put us in the penitentiary.

Thomas B. Felder: Well, I assure you that I have never mentioned the names of either one of you.

A. S. Colyar: Well, say; Dorsey told Chief Lanford, so I have been informed, that you told Dorsey Sunday night that I was the—framer and double-crosser and blackmailer in the state, and you know if you know the law at all, that a blackmailer has to threaten a man with a crime, and you know I have not charged you with any crime.

Felder: No, you have been straight with me, and I will put up a thousand dollars to ten cents that I never mentioned your name to Dorsey, but he mentioned your name to me.

Colyar: If this is going to get us into trouble, I am not going to have anything to do with it.

Said He Controls Mayor.

Felder: Trouble, hell. Why, I can control the judge, the mayor and Hugh Dorsey.

Colyar: What judge.

Felder: The judge of the criminal court. And I wouldn't do it in an improper way.

Colyar: I wouldn't want you to do that.

Febuary: Well, it is just like this. There is only one certain time of day that I can get those papers, and I don't want to carry them around with me.

Felder: Well, you understand, I don't want the papers unless they are evidence enough to put Lanford and Beavers out of business. Now, Colyar, says you say that you have got the papers that will put him out. Well, Mr. Febuary, can't you see Miles, who is working on this thing for me, and give him the papers.

Colyar: We don't want to deal with Miles. We are dealing with you.

Felder: Personally, I know Miles is all right, and you can deliver the evidence to Miles.

(On account of street car passing dictagraph was indistinct.)

Colyar: What fellows did Woodward want to prosecute?

Felder: Lanford and Beavers.

(On account of noise in room dictagraph was indistinct.)

Felder: All that you have got to do is to go and do it and just tell Miles and he will do just whatever is necessary on that end of the line.

Colyar: Yes?

Felder: Now, so far as you and Febuary being prosecuted or indicted or put in jail, that is all bull.

Colyar: Yes, I understand.

Felder: Where did you see Lanford?

Colyar: I did not see him. I heard through Febuary that he heard Dorsey make this statement. He thought that you and I were good friends and he would turn you against me.

Felder: He told you that Hugh Dorsey told him that I told Hugh Dorsey that you were a crook and a framer and double-crosser? That is a damned liar. When did he tell you that?

Febuary: I don't know whether it was the first of this week or the last of last week.

Colyar: You told me Monday that you had taken this down in a statement and had filed it away, and that Hugh Dorsey told Chief Lanford that I was the damnedest blackmailer and crook he ever saw, and for him not to have anything to do with me. You told Felder told Dorsey that I was a crook and a damned liar and a frame-up and a double-cross.

Felder: Don't you understand Lanford? That was a statement of his own imagination in order to get you in that frame of mind toward me.

Colyar: I do not know Lanford.

Felder: Let me tell you another thing——

Colyar: Lanford knows that you and I have always been good friends.

Felder: Hugh Dorsey wants to use me whatever for Lanford, and wouldn't talk to him, and if I had told him anything about you he wouldn't tell Lanford. I would have said all that to Dorsey and he never would have mentioned it to him.

Febuary: Mr. Febuary will tell you what he has got to say.

Felder: Now, Febuary can get those papers, can't he?

Febuary: I can only get them at a certain time of the day, and I don't want to carry them around with me; I want to turn them loose right away.

Felder: Now you understand I must see the papers first, in order to do what I told you.

Sought All Affidavits.

Febuary: Let me understand you. You want this Coleman affidavit and all other Phagan affidavits that I can get hold of.

Felder: Yes. Colyar told me that he was to have the evidence that would get those two chiefs out of commission, the Phagan papers and the Coleman affidavit. Now what have you got?

Febuary: I haven't got these papers. The chief has these papers in a large envelope. I do not know whether he keeps any graft sheets or not. I never saw one.

Colyar: You will have to examine these papers after Mr. Felder hands them up. ——— Tell me this. Wasn't you employed by Coleman to work on this case?

Felder: Coleman said this to me (failed to catch part of conversation. Then I said "Mr. Coleman, I was introduced by Mr. McCall." I believe that was his name (scraping of feet on floor interfered with dictagraph.) I said "Mr. Coleman, I would like to go on the prosecution in this case." He said, "I haven't got any money to employ a lawyer." I said, "You misunderstand me. It isn't necessary for you to give me any money. That has been all arranged." McCall said, "Now you meet us down there at 4:30, wasn't it Febuary, that the inquest was to be held that afternoon, and I went down and was introduced to Mr. Coleman, but I have forgotten who introduced me to Coleman. Now," he says, "I understand we would like to have you look after the case, but I haven't money to employ anybody with." "Now," I said, "Mr. Coleman you misapprehend the gentleman, now he is asking you for no money, he is simply asking you for your consent to represent you." Before we could close those [illegible] ner's jury broke up and we all separated. Now there wasn't anything said about the regularity of my employment, but it was taken for granted.

Colyar: I want to put you in position where you can act, without bringing me into it.

Felder: I don't have to say you gave me the papers.

Colyar: If you do, they will give me hell and you know it. I will be an accessory before the fact for him getting those papers and giving them to you.

Felder: You violate no law.

Colyar: He has.

Felder: No, he has'nt. To abstract a lot of framed up documents is no larceny.

Colyar: Well, tell him what you want to, Febuary. Felder, can you bring Miles up here to see me? Can you bring him up at 4 o'clock?

Felder: Yes. All right.

Febuary: It is 3:20 now.

Felder: Tell what you are going to do about the papers.

Febuary: Well, I put them back. I was afraid to deliver these papers to you in Atlanta.

Felder: What is that?

Could "Frame Him."

Colyar: He said he was afraid to give them to you in Atlanta. He will give them to you at East Lake or Decatur.

Felder: Now, I don't know just exactly that he has absolutely got the papers that I want.

Febuary: "I will bring them up and let you examine them and see if they are what you want.

Colyar: Well, I will meet you at East Lake or Decatur with him.

Felder: That isn't necessary at all. Now, No. Tom Felder, I am not going to do anything with these papers in this city, because they can prosecute me and frame up a lot of evidence, and swear hell's an L to box.

Felder: Nobody would believe them.

Colyar: They can frame up on anybody.

Felder: Well, now what time could you see me?

Febuary: Well, about 2 o'clock.

Colyar:

CALIFORNIA SIDELIGHTS.

The ignorant Chinese in Charles Lamb's fable burned down the house that they might enjoy roast pig. If a correspondent of The Boston (Mass.) Transcript is correctly informed, Governor Johnson, of California, is willing to set the house of the nation on fire if he may thereby go to—the senate. It is at any rate, according to this authority, the governor's senatorial ambitions that provoked the present crisis, and the story is told as follows:

In California, the politics back of the agitation for an anti-alien land law centers around the desire of Governor Johnson to reach the United States senate. He will be opposed in the campaign when it opens by Francis J. Heney, whose work in the graft prosecutions in San Francisco he took up when Heney was shot. It is the belief of Governor Johnson that the sympathies of Colonel Roosevelt are with Mr. Heney. This would place Johnson at a serious disadvantage should it prove true, and in casting about for an issue to offset this, Johnson seized upon the "yellow peril." Labor agitators by one of the gang implicated in the McNamara affair have renewing their demands that the Japanese in California, even though they constitute only about two per cent of the population, should be excluded from all land holding. The governor took up this issue and the legislature which he dominates, or rather his followers in that body which is in the majority, started upon its passage a rigid bill prohibiting all aliens ineligible to citizenship from owning property. The outcry raised throughout the country and in Japan and the earnest protest of Colonel Roosevelt to Governor Johnson had the effect of modifying the original bill.

We hope this version is exaggerated. It is not reassuring to think that demagogy can reach such sinister extremes that it will involve the entire nation in trouble that may end in war, cost thousands of lives and hundreds of millions of dollars, all in exchange for a senate seat. The disparity in the stakes is too tremendous, too appalling. But there is the story for what it is worth.

In this connection former President Roosevelt is completely exonerated from a rather general suspicion that his influence has been back of the persistency of Johnson. When the situation assumed a crisis in the California legislature, Colonel Roosevelt was asked the point blank question as to how he stood by eastern newspaper men. He responded that he had protested to Governor Johnson. When asked for a copy of what he said, he replied, "That is purely a personal matter between myself and Governor Johnson; if he cares to give out the correspondence he may do so." Johnson declined to make public Roosevelt's telegrams. It is known, however, that they constituted an emphatic protest against the proposed action and a stiff warning as to the consequences.

THE ANSWER---COME SOUTH.

The New York Herald laments that the long-continued and increasing tide of immigration is uprooting all our old dietary standards and replacing them with the peculiar tastes of many European countries. "Strawberry shortcake is fading fast away," it mourns, "pork and beans—cooked according to the ancient New England recipe, with a little molasses—is following in its wake, and corn beef hash is tainted with onions and even garlic. Meantime, the tide of immigration has carried with it foreign drink and cookery and developed the culture of many foodstuffs."

The good old dishes of our forefathers may be vanishing in the east and other sections of the country, but, bless your heart! they still reign supreme this side of the Potomac river. Don't think we're intolerant or dogmatic. The southern mind is receptive with regard to cookery as with regard to high finance, highbrow literature or futurist art. There is nothing small or snobbish about the south's gustatory inclinations. But in this section, we venture to boast, you will find more of the original American dishes and the American style of cookery than in any other part of the country.

It has often been said that the south contained the nation's largest percentage of pure Anglo-Saxon extraction. The influences that have militated to keep pure our racial strain—such as isolation, slowness in development, the civil war, etc.—have also operated to guard the diet list against foreign influence. As for shortcake? Well, had The Herald visited Georgia during the season just passed it would have seen no signs of decadence, either in the luscious product itself or in the native love for it. As for meats, it is likely the southron likes his roast and his pork in virtually the same style his Cavalier and Huguenot ancestors liked them—as if fresh from a turning spit, succulent and inviting. And where that king of breads, "corn pone," is concerned, it graces today the representative southern table. Go out on the myriad farms and you will find still supreme those bountiful and well-seasoned vegetable dinners that used to characterize the ante-bellum regime.

This doesn't mean that we haven't here and there fallen victims to the delicacies and refinements of foreign cuisine. But in the representative instance the south maintains the sturdiest of American standards as regards the table. So whenever our friends of the north, east and west want to sample again a genuine American dinner, let them catch the next limited in this direction. They'll find it worth the price!

CUBA'S CRISIS.

The republic of Cuba probably enters upon the critical period of its history with the inauguration of Mario G. Menocal as its third president. His predecessor, Gomez, narrowly grazed forcing American intervention by his weakness and inefficiency, and the opinion is growing that the next time our troops go to Cuba it will be on an expedition of permanent occupation.

Whether Menocal can merge all factions and give the island a far start on the road to stable government is an unknown quantity. He is said to be an excellent administrator, is certainly an adroit politician, and, not the least important of qualifications, has had military experience. It is also encouraging that he approaches his task with a full knowledge of its difficulties.

At present, as ever since its nominal independence, Cuba has been the stamping ground of differing cliques and of aspiring politicians. The people themselves have had little or no experience in the arts and restraints of self-government. The legacy of unrest and of force which was handed down from the Spanish regime has more or less persisted to this day. Each succeeding president has been confronted by a patronage problem by the side of which the quandaries of the American democrats are negligible. For if the American aspirant, however powerful, fails to receive an appointment, he can either nurse his grouch in private or keep a political hatchet whetted. But in Cuba the practice has been to fly to arms. This tendency, and the further tendency to loot the treasury on the slightest pretext, has made troubles for any man charged with administration. Further complications have been the scarcity of land, great estates being held in "cold storage." President Menocal has pledged himself to attack this abuse.

Should President Menocal succeed in weathering the next year and in bringing all elements in Cuba to a realization of the responsibilities ahead of them, he will have wrought historically for his country. Doubt still prevails in America as to the stability of the island ever to govern itself. Menocal's administration should answer the question one way or the other.

ALSO AN ATLANTA PROBLEM.

"Spotless Town" of familiar memory is to have a rival in "Noiseless Town," and, wonderful to behold, the candidate is to be none other than Chicago, second largest city of the nation. The casual visitor to Chicago who knows the racket-manufacturing possibilities of the "Windy City" will rise up and call these latest crusaders blessed, but will speculate as to how they will go about performance. The rest of the country is also likely to watch with interest this latest municipal experiment.

Chicago's determination grows out of a conference recently between council's health committee and a delegation of lawyers, doctors, merchants, managers of hospitals and others. The latter represented to the guardians of the city's health that the noises made by autos, elevated trains, locomotive whistles, river boat sirens, peddlers and so forth were detrimental to health and business. The committee agreed with them. As a result, old ordinances regulating the city's noise will be revived and more stringent new ones enacted.

Power to this movement! It attacks an evil we had all grown to believe inseparable from cities and one that is becoming each day a more trying problem. And, incidentally, Atlanta has the same problem to solve.

Where the Old Friends Used to Be.

I.

We are in that country that's wonderful to see,
But still in dreams we're drifting where the old friends used to be.
The old friends who loved us through sweet, remembered years,
And all that now is left us is Memory's gift of tears.

II.

The mockingbird was singing in the old mulberry tree
Yonder, in that country where the old friends used to be;
The bees were in the blossoms, the larks—they winged the loam
There, where the old friends made glad the hearts of home.

III.

The world is rolling far away and sudden scenes arise
That seem to dim a far off day and sweet, serener skies,
But Love that ever leads us to God's eternity
Still whispers of the old place where the old friends used to be.

* * * * *

Off Yonder.

I.

I want to leave the trouble of the dusty, driving town—
I want to be off yonder where the cork is going down;
For, at my desk, a-writing, I hear the rippled streams,
The friendly fish are biting—I "land" 'em in my dreams!

II.

I want to be off yonder where the world is smiling bright,
And fade away in shadows, or lose myself in light;
The green banks of a river, so quiet, cool and deep,
And let the fish tug at my line and wake me from my sleep!

A Love Song.

I.

Bright are the skies above you
While I am lonely here;
But toll—because I love you,
Is sweet as rest, my dear.

II.

You, where the kind God pities
His roses, rimmed with dew;
I, in the thunder-cities,
Singing my soul to you.

III.

I may not ever meet you
There, where the lilies wait,
And know the necklace of your arms
In the starlight, at the gate.

IV.

But O, that Fate, relenting,
Might smile upon the strife,
And Love would kiss the dying
Back to eternal life!

The Fine Old Country.

Bless the fine old country,
She's comin' right along,
Music on the highway—
Hallelula in a song!

Bless the fine old country
Every joyous day,
We're singin' on the hilltops,
"Hallelula on the way!"

New News of Yesterday

How Federal Credit Was Strengthened During the Civil War.

By E. J. Edwards.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

In the spring of 1864 a pamphlet was published bearing the title of "Our Burden and Our Strength." The publication became really a national sensation. Hundreds of thousands of copies were printed, and over 300,000 were sent to Great Britain and the continent of Europe. In this country men who thought themselves well informed about our natural resources discovered after reading this pamphlet that they really knew little about the magnitude and the almost inexhaustible nature of the resources of the northern and the western states and territories. The effect of this pamphlet upon Europe was immediately felt by the representatives of the government who had been commissioned to offer government bonds for sale abroad. Furthermore, one effect of the pamphlet was greatly to depreciate the credit of the bonds which were offered for sale in Europe by the Confederate government.

E. J. Edwards.

The author of this pamphlet was David A. Wells. Its publication gave him both a national and an international reputation. He became one of the leading economic authorities of the United States and was for a time associated officially with the treasury department at Washington. Afterward Mr. Wells was called into consultation professionally by many of the important corporate and railroad interests of the United States.

It was my good fortune to become acquainted with Mr. Wells in 1873. I had many conversations with him. Sometimes he seemed absent-minded and I soon learned that this betokened intense concentration of his mind on some important matter. At other times he was very communicative. I took advantage of a time when Mr. Wells seemed disposed to chat freely to ask him how he came to write the pamphlet entitled "Our Burden and Our Strength."

"Why," he replied, "that was almost accidental. The writing of it can be directly traced to my business association with Mr. George Putnam, the publisher, of New York city. When I was a young man I was for a time in business relations with Mr. Putnam. He was a very broad-minded and sagacious man.

"Mr. Putnam was informed that a representative of the Confederate government who was living in Holland had written a pamphlet for the purpose of showing that the Confederate cotton bonds were as good as gold, since behind every bond was the equivalent amount of cotton. The pamphlet, by implication, intimated that in this respect the Confederate government was very much stronger than the federal government.

"Mr. Putnam was greatly concerned when he read this pamphlet. Almost instantly his mind turned to me. He knew that I had made a special study of economic questions and of some of the natural resources of the northern and western states and territories. He remembered that I had told him that the natural resources of the north were sufficient to support an army of a million men for ten years and without greatly straining the credit of the nation and these resources.

"Mr. Putnam, therefore, suggested to me that I write a pamphlet setting forth in detail what the natural and many of the undeveloped resources of the north were, so that in this way I could show that the government of the United States could rely with confidence upon its unexampled resources for the maintenance of an army of at least a million men a year.

"I acted at once upon the suggestion. The work did not require a great deal of labor. I had most of the material ready at hand.

"I have been told that when Disraeli, who, with the exception of John Bryce, was the only prominent statesman who predicted ultimate victory for the north, read this pamphlet, he said that it was for the reason set forth in the pamphlet that he was confident that the union armies would ultimately be triumphant."

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON.
The Famous Prose Poet

Open Confession.

"I have shooting pains in my diaphragm and a bad taste in my mouth, and I can't see straight," said Quigway, as he drifted into the corner drug store, "and I want some medicine that will make me as good as new. Some sort of a spring tonic. What do you recommend?"

"I don't recommend anything," replied the druggist. "I have a dozen kinds of spring medicines, but they are no good. They are composed of cheap rainwater and a few useless drugs. Five cents worth of sassafras will make three barrels of the ordinary spring medicine who presides over highway robbery to put such dope in bottles and sell it for a dollar a throw. You'd better go to the woods and collect a basket full of yarbs and simples, and make your own medicine. A dried apple is the last place you should go to for it."

"What's biting you, anyhow? Have you been converted, or is your reason unseated? If you are insane, your relatives should be notified. When a druggist talks that way about his own stock, it is time to do something. Now, come out of your trance and quit fooling. What sort of stuff is that in the large black bottles?"

"That's Doctor Ripsaw's Rejuvenator. It's sold as a spring tonic, and the easy marks bung it in great quantities, but they're just throwing their money away. It's my private opinion that Doctor Ripsaw should be in the penitentiary for selling such stuff to suffering humanity. I have heard that it costs only 6 cents to make 20 gallons of his Rejuvenator, yet he has the gall to ask a dollar a bottle. It won't rejuvenate anything but the manufacturer's bank account. It might as well be recommended as a hair restorer, for all the good it will do. Take my advice and pass it up. Get yourself a market basket and go to the deep tangled wildwood, and gather barks and buds and such things, and heal yourself. That's the only thing to do."

"You seem sane," remarked Quigway. "There is no delirium in your eyes, and you don't froth at the mouth. It must be that you are walking in your sleep. Now, come out of it, and talk seriously. Have you any medicine you compound yourself that you know is a good thing?"

"I put up a combination of sulphur and syrup as a spring medicine, but I don't know that it's a good thing. As a matter of fact, I am afraid it's worthless, perhaps injurious. You see, I have to buy my sulphur and syrup from the manufacturers, and I have no way of knowing how badly it's adulterated. I suppose the sulphur is mostly yellow ochre, and the syrup is largely pine tar. Nowadays a man doesn't know what he's getting. So I strongly advise my friends not to buy my compound. It might send them to untimely graves, and it certainly wouldn't do them any good. Take my advice, Mr. Quigway. Go out to the hedges and highways and gather herbs and grasses and twigs and saplings and boil them down in pure water and then drink the tea."

"Well, I see you're dippy. No sane druggist would put up such a line of talk when a customer comes in. I'll go and buy what I want from some druggist who has his intellect on straight, but before I go I wish you'd tell me what happened to put you in this condition."

"I got most of my information from you," remarked the druggist. "You came in here the other evening when I had several customers, and you sat on the counter and lifted up your voice and explained that all drugs and medicines are fakes, and that people who sell them should be in jail. I suppose you know all about it, or you wouldn't talk that way in public. I bow to your superior knowledge. You insisted that one gallon of the old fashioned yarb tea is worth more than all the medicines on a druggist's shelves. I have no doubt you were right, and I urge you once more to go to the woods and strip the bark from an elm tree and eat it. You haven't money enough to buy anything here. Good afternoon, Mr. Quigway."

The World's Mysteries

MYSTERIES of ANTIQUITY

WAS PISA'S TOWER BUILT TO LEAN?

One of the most curious structures in the world is the Leaning Tower of Pisa. No one has ever been able to ascertain whether the Tower was built in its present inclined position, or whether it has been toppling gradually during the centuries since it was constructed. An investigation that was started shortly after the fall of the famous Campanile of Venice in 1902 has revealed several interesting facts regarding this structure, but even the men who performed the task were not able to fathom the mystery of the great incline of this Tower.

For many years it was supposed that the Tower was founded upon a massive and spacious base, but instead these investigators found that the real foundation simply consists of a ring of masonry exactly corresponding in girth to the huge cylindrical mass it bears. In fact, the diameter of the inner ring of foundation is precisely that of the place inside the Tower.

This discovery, with the further astonishing fact that the foundations are merely three meters beneath the surface, would appear to constitute almost incontrovertible proof that the Leaning Tower of Pisa was originally built perpendicularly, and that its leaning propensities, which are becoming more and more accentuated, are due to other causes than the intention of its constructors.

Its lean has been gradual, though marked, within the past hundred years. Two English architects who examined the Tower in 1817 noted that it was 12 feet 7 inches out of the vertical line, but since that time it has increased more than one foot, being at present 13 feet and 8 inches from the perpendicular. Including the cornice, it is 16 feet off the perpendicular.

Another English writer, who visited the Tower about the middle of the last century, wrote as follows: "I am as much satisfied that this Tower was built in its present form as with any arguments I have read to the contrary."

He then refers to the statement of Messrs. Cressy and Taylor, which was published in 1829: "They have shown, to their minds, in a very satisfactory way, no doubt, that the Tower of Pisa was not built in a leaning position, as the scaffold holes incline just as the Tower does, and also that the settlement must have begun to show itself before the completion, from the attempts that were made to rectify it by increasing the height of the columns and cornices on the lower side in order to throw the upper part of the building in the opposite direction. I observe the same artifice in the tower at Bologna."

The base of the tower has always been immersed in water, which is the reason for its unsteadiness, and it has, no doubt, been affected at various times by seismic movements. It is stated that Galileo, who swung his pendulum from the overhanging south cornice in 1615, in his experiments to confirm the laws of gravitation, found nine years later that his pendulum reached further from the base by several inches, but in the meantime there had occurred the earthquake of 1600. It is also stated that after the earthquakes of 1824 and 1859 the tower showed a very perceptible increased inclination.

When the Tower of Pisa was begun in 1174, one historian tells us, after the plans of the architects, Bonnanus, of Pisa, and William, of Innsbruck, the structure was intended to stand erect. The third story, however, had scarcely been reached when it was found to incline towards the south. Work was stopped and for nearly a century it remained as it was. The five additional stories, completed in 1350, show a slight inclination of structure in the northerly direction, and this, added to the fact that the two heaviest bells of the seven in the tower are hung in the northern side, shows the attempts that were made in the fourteenth century to maintain the equilibrium of the tower, if not its permanent stability. These bells which 12,000 pounds, and are named the Assumption and the Crucified Christ.

There are good arguments that would appear to sustain both sides in this controversy, and the only fact upon which recent investigators have based their belief is that the tower was built crooked unintentionally, as its meager foundation would prove. A learned Frenchman of the sixteenth century, and the only one apparently with seriousness, that the architect was a hunchback and made the tower crooked to resemble himself.

GEORGIA, ROAD-MAKER

By Philip Weltner, Secretary Prison Association of Georgia.

Georgia has gone into the business of building roads. It has also gone into the business of building men. Georgia, busy at the task of building roads, can achieve the nobler task of building men. The men can build the roads, and the building in turn may serve to build the men.

Georgia will never make men by their wanton humiliation. Stripes will never do it; chains will never do it; the lash will never do it; the threatening glint of cold steel will never do it. Such methods may build roads. But the builders will be made brutes, both captains and guards and men.

Every noble task ennobles the doer. You take joy in the job into which you liberate the best that is in you. The secret of building men is to make them love the work in hand. Do not be skeptical of the possibility of making "a black nigger" love to sweat at building roads. Let the convict feel that in building well he is building himself, and the trick is done.

Governor West, of Oregon, understands the secret. He writes, "First, we have given the boys a few cents for a good day's work. All of our outside men, or 'trusties,' receive twenty-five cents per day for their labor. A little bank account has the significance of a certificate of deposit in the great bank of character. Along with the few cents is our honor system. We pride ourselves that sixty per cent of the men serving time are out on honor. One of our trusties expressed a sentiment at a little dinner, given for the boys and me, which ought to be the guiding star of all our prison policies: 'The best we can do under such circumstances (referring to the honor system) is too little, but under the old regime, guarded by cold steel, the least we could do seemed too much.'"

Out in Oregon they have abolished the stripes. Out in Oregon they have abolished the strap. It is not to be wondered at. And they make good roads. They need not employ human beings to perform the functions of watch dog. The shot gun is unheard of. A pistol is more than enough.

If Georgia would make it worth while for a convict to do his best, brutalities would cease. Good will would take the place of hate. Honest work in making roads would pave the way to making honest men.

GALVESTON

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Most cities are like each other, varying only in the luxury of their new hotels and the size of their census figures and union depots. But Galveston made itself and there is no duplicate.

Galveston has 37,000 people. It used to have 38,000, but on September 8, 1900, the Gulf of Mexico rose up over it and drowned 6,000 of its people. The next morning Galveston was a soggy wreck and the nation began collecting enough money to bring the survivors to some safe place and let them start a new city.

The Galveston folks who were left were all Texas people and instead of being discouraged they got mad. Galveston lies on a long narrow island shaped like a hat pin and about as slender. It was so low that when there was an unusually high tide, the sea wandered down the main street and called for mail at the postoffice. Galveston built a sea wall 17 feet high and 17,500 feet long. Then she raised herself up to the top of the sea wall, twiddled her fingers at the gulf and dared it to come again. How are you going to discourage a town like that?

Galveston is little but mighty important. The ships of the earth sneak in behind Pelican island on which Galveston stands and load cotton. It takes fifty steamship lines to carry away Galveston's cotton. The city is visited by more tramps than any other city in the world, but it doesn't mind it. Its tramps are tramp steamships and they make her tonnage figures bigger than those of any American city except New York.

Galveston has had quantities of history. It has been under six flags—Spanish, La-Fitte's black flag, Mexican, Texan, United States and Confederate—and has dipped into four or five wars a little ways. Its citizens have grown rich and when they die they leave high schools, hospitals, libraries, war monuments and drinking fountains to the town. It has the finest beach in the country and the climate is so even that the merchants sell thermometers with the temperature printed on the glass and the citizens don't know the difference.

Galveston's six bridges to the main land were blown away in the great storm, so she built an isthmus instead. She has 13 square miles, but better than that, she has several square commissioners who govern the city on the commission plan and save $100,000 a year with which to pay interest on the sea wall bonds.

Galveston is little, but she has demonstrated to the world that she can't be lost even when the whole ocean jumps on her.

IF—

By George Matthew Adams

IF is the Biggest small word to be found in any Dictionary. IF is the hurdle which hurls more human beings into "The Slough of Despond," Disappointment and Failure than any other Barrier.

IF is primarily destructive rather than constructive. Trivial and Innocent in appearance, yet it is the Great Divide word sitting at the seat of Separation where one man presses on and the other turns back.

IF is the slogan of Sluggards. To you whose Inertia carries you but to meet the word, to you whose habits are those of dissipation and mental disorder IF presents to you an Obstacle Impassable.

BUT—

In the Dictionary that the Doer owns there is no IF. For the King of the man who Does is the King of Will—and no thing or word or man ever conquered King Will.

IN DOWNPOUR OF RAIN WALKER LAID TO REST

Every Business House in Monroe Closes During Hours of the Funeral.

By Ernest Camp.

Monroe, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—The funeral of B. Sanders Walker, Jr., who died in Macon Thursday morning after a week's illness caused by his taking a bichloride mercury tablet through mistake, occurred from the First Baptist church of Monroe this afternoon at 2 o'clock, being conducted by his pastor, Dr. E. C. Dargan, of Macon, and Dr. D. W. Key, pastor of the First Baptist church of Monroe.

The funeral party arrived in a special car over the Georgia railroad at 12:30 o'clock, being accompanied by many relatives and friends of the dead man. A large number of sorrowing friends were gathered at the depot in a downpour of rain awaiting the train's arrival.

The remains of Mr. Walker were escorted from the train to the home of his father, B. S. Walker, Sr., a short distance away, where they remained until the funeral at 2 o'clock. Hundreds of sympathetic friends called at the Walker home to pay a last tribute of respect

Every business house in the city was closed during the hours of the funeral from 2 to 3 o'clock, and a big throng turned out to hear the last services in honor of the beloved dead.

Floral Offerings Pack Church.

The floral offerings were exquisite, and came from Macon, Atlanta, Monroe and many other parts of the state. There was such an abundance of the flowers that all of them could not be placed in the church, and many of the designs were extremely beautiful.

The funeral services were beautiful and impressive. In his eloquent and tender peroration Dr. Dargan delivered a stinging rebuke to the irresponsible newspapers which had entered the Walker home in its greatest hour of gloom and sent out outrageously false reports in connection with his case.

Following the funeral at the church the ceremonies were concluded with a brief service at the cemetery.

Wife Unable to Attend Funeral.

The dead man's wife is completely prostrated, and was unable to attend the funeral today.

The local pallbearers were H. B. Nunnally, Arthur Mobley, Herbert and Harry Breedlove, G. M. Knight and E. W. Roberts, of Monroe, and W. M. Goodwin, of Sandersville, all close friends and former associates of Mr. Walker.

Visited Monroe in November.

Sanders Walker's last visit to Monroe was during last November. Then he came in the full strength and power of promising young manhood, upon a brief visit to relatives and friends. Today he came with his life's book closed, the flowers upon his casket wet with the tears of the heart-broken relatives and friends accompanying him.

Residing at Macon in the old home of Sidney Lanier, young Walker was surrounded by all the sentiment and tender memories that cling to that loved and historic shrine, and the gallant fight he made for life touched a pathetic chord in the hearts of men and kindled a sympathy which has swept all over the state.

The center of interest in his unusual case has switched from Macon, his adopted home, to Monroe, where he was born and reared, and where, after life's last chord was severed, he was brought back and laid to rest.

NINE STORES BURNED IN TALLAPOOSA FIRE

Entire Business District of the Town Threatened by Big Midnight Blaze.

Tallapoosa, Ga., May 23.—(Special.) Fire at midnight last night destroyed nine stores in the heart of Tallapoosa. The long row of buildings on the south side of the railroad was almost completely destroyed.

The blaze originated in the rear of a barber shop, and when discovered were burning furiously and spread rapidly. The store buildings were burned and the flames attacked the Rambo office building, but were checked there and prevented from spreading to other business blocks. For a time it seemed that the entire business district was threatened.

The buildings were occupied by general store, a restaurant, market, etc. W. L. Tumlin is the heaviest loser, with F. L. McMahan second. McMahan lost his building and entire stock of goods.

Several people were sleeping in the buildings, but all escaped just in time to be uninjured.

The fire was near the tracks of the Southern railroad and all trains were delayed several hours, a number of them being forced to remain in the yards until the flames abated.

Plans are already being made for rebuilding some of the houses. The exact amount of the loss has not been determined, but it is large and not much of it covered by insurance.

Leap Over Windshield Saves Athens Machinist As Automobile Explodes

Athens, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—Yesterday evening, 8 miles from Athens, Paul Keller, a Frenchman, machinist at a local garage, escaped horrible death by a shade of a second and a few feet, when he made a flying leap over the windshield of a big, 7-passenger Stoddard touring car, which exploded and burned up behind him.

He was testing the machine for a defect which rendered the mileage for the amount of gasoline used abnormally low. He heard a hissing sound, looked back and saw a stream of flame issuing from the motor and enveloping the tank. He leaned and escaped with some minor scratches.

The machine was in a few seconds a mass of twisted scrap iron. Only the axles and radiator were left.

S. Michael paid $3,800 for the car only a few days ago.

CAMPAIGN AT GRIFFIN FOR BOARD OF TRADE

Griffin, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—A whirlwind campaign is now on in Griffin for the purpose of raising $3,000 to organize a board of trade and put it on a permanent basis.

At a meeting of the retail merchants' association, when address was delivered by A. W. McKeand, secretary of the Southern Commercial association, a definite step was taken in that direction when a committee of seven men was appointed to take the matter in hand and canvass the business houses of Griffin. The committee is headed by Mayor J. M. Smith.

The first object to which the board will probably give its attention will be to adjust the alleged discrimination in freight rates as practiced against this place by the railroads.

ORIGINAL UNCLE SAM IS IN ATLANTA AGAIN

Frank S. Colburn, known as the original Uncle Sam, who spent some time in Atlanta several months ago, was again a visitor to this city yesterday after a trip through south Georgia and Florida.

"Florida is all right," said Mr. Colburn, "but the mosquitoes—well, I'm mighty glad to be back.

Mr. Colburn looks strikingly like the popular representations of Uncle Sam, and attracts general attention wherever he goes by the resemblance. He is on a four years' tour of the world, on which he started from New York, June 27, 1911. While on his journeys, he supports himself by selling his song, "Down in Panama." It is his intention to go from here to the confederate reunion in Chattanooga next week, and from there he will take in the reunion of the Blue and the Gray at Gettysburg in July.

REV. JOHN WHITE WILL PREACH AT TUSKEGEE

The thirty-second annual commencement sermon at Tuskegee institute, Tuskegee, Ala., Booker T. Washington, principal and founder, will be preached at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon by Rev. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, Atlanta.

The invitation by Booker T. Washington to Dr. White will be keeping with the long-established custom of Tuskegee institute to have the commencement sermon preached by a leading white minister. The majority have been selected from southern divines. Quite a few of the Presbyterian commissioners will visit Booker Washington's plant.

Jackson News Notes.

MAY CALL CONVENTION ON W. & A. RAILROAD

Chamber of Commerce Committee Suggests Gathering of Representative Men Here.

A convention of representative men from all over the state may be called at a not distant date by the Atlanta chamber of commerce for the purpose of considering the future of the Western and Atlantic railroad. The suggestion was made at the first meeting of the committee on the Western and Atlantic railroad, appointed by the chamber yesterday, and it seemed to meet with general favor.

While the present lease of the road does not expire until 1919, nearly six years off, the questions involved are of such importance not only to the people of Atlanta, but to the state at large, that the committee feels that is not too early to begin a thorough study of the matter with a view to reaching a solution satisfactory to all interests involved. The committee invites other commercial bodies in the state to take up the problem and give it careful study.

Statement of Mr. Wimbish.

In a carefully prepared statement which was read at the meeting yesterday, the chairman, W. A. Wimbish, discussed various phases of the problem, such as the proposed extension of the road to the sea, the purchase by the state of the A., B. & A. railroad, the disposition of the Chattanooga terminals, the advisability of a long lease with a view to double tracking and other improvements, or a short lease, etc. Mr. Wimbish said:

"This committee has been raised by the chamber of commerce, not alone for safe-guarding the interest of the city of Atlanta, but also for promoting the welfare with respect to the future disposition and use of the Western and Atlantic railroad.

"As you are aware, the present lease expires in the year 1919, and therefore has something less than six years within which to run. The question of what shall be done with this property at the expiration of the lease is of such consequence to the people of this city and of this state that it is none too early to begin definite work looking to the desired end.

"The principal question that presents itself is whether this property should be again leased or whether it would be better for the state to undertake its operation. If it should be decided to be the better policy for the state to operate the property, the question then arises, whether it will not be essential to provide for its extension to the sea. Whether the state should extend and operate the property thereby coming into business competition with other railroads in the state, presents still another question.

"It is doubtful if the road should be extended from Atlanta to the sea, unless it is to be operated by the state, or unless such extension becomes necessary to preserve the value of the Western and Atlantic railroad. Should this extension be built and then leased it could not operate as a competitor against excessive freight rates, for the reason that the lessee company would, undoubtedly, establish the same rates as those charged by other competing lines.

Suggests Purchase of A., B. & A.

"Should the extension be deemed desirable, it is then to be determined whether it should be accomplished by means of original construction or whether negotiations should be entered into for the purchase of an existing line, such at the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad. It would be essential that the state should have adequate terminals at the port, and that a regular line of steamships from eastern cities should be established or encouraged.

"In the event it should be found best to again lease the property in question, whether this lease should be for a long or a short term, should receive careful consideration. Should the lease be made for a short term at a fair rental, as in the past, it could not be expected that the lessee would make any very great permanent improvements in the property; nevertheless, a short-term lease had advantages which are obvious. On the other hand, the lessee for a long term might be required to double-track the line, reduce the grades, straighten the curves and otherwise improve the property, as a part of the consideration of the lease; and the rental might be adjusted on a graduated scale of increase. A long term lease has its corresponding disadvantages.

"The state owns, as appurtenant to the Western and Atlantic railroad in the city of Chattanooga, a large amount of valuable property not useful for railroad purposes. You should consider whether this property should be reserved from the lease, as well as the use or disposition that should be made of it.

"With respect to the city of Atlanta, suggestions have been made to reserve that portion of the property east of Forsyth street for business purposes and for civic improvement. This matter should receive your most earnest and careful consideration.

"It is my earnest hope that the work of this committee may be conducive to good results. We should proceed conservatively, having in view the public interest and not alone the selfish interest of the city of Atlanta, although, of course, the welfare of this city is to be ever kept in mind. At the proper time and in the proper way we may be able to invoke the co-operation of other organized bodies interested in the subject, and exert a beneficial influence in arriving at the best solution of this very important matter."

Dr. Strickler Preaches Frm Old Pulpit Sunday At Central Presbyterian

Dr. G. B. Strickler, the Central Presbyterian's beloved pastor of former years, will occupy his old pulpit Sunday morning. Though it is many years since Dr. Strickler lived and labored in Atlanta, he is well known here and has hundreds of warm friends.

He has been a prominent figure at the Southern Presbyterian assembly during the past two weeks. Being the only ex-moderator in the assembly besides Dr. Clyce, the retiring moderator, his opinion on parliamentary rulings was appealed to dozens of times during the sessions. He is at present a professor in Union Theological seminary, Richmond, Va.

Dr. William H. Roberts, the venerable stated clerk of the northern assembly, who has been a prominent figure at the assemblies for over forty years, will also remain in Atlanta over Sunday. He will preach at the Harris Street Presbyterian church Sunday morning, and in the evening he will occupy Dr. Dunbar Ogden's pulpit in the Central Presbyterian.

COURT PAYS $50,000 TO HUFF CREDITORS

Mrs. Jennings and Edison Huff Decline to Accept $6,110 Awarded to Them.

Macon, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—Under the recent decree of Judge Emory Speer of the United States district court, that portion of the claims against the Huff estate which have not been disputed, are being paid today, amounting to a little over $50,000. This represent about half principal and half interest, in some cases the interest having accrued during the fourteen years being as large as the principal.

Mrs. Jennings and Edison Huff, children of Colonel Huff, have refused to accept the $6,110 given to them by the decree of the court because it does not include interest for the last four years, while all of the other amounts awarded do. This is the principal point on which Colonel Huff has based his appeal.

After the money has been paid out today there will be $33,000 left in the registry of the court in addition to five and a half acres of improved property in South Macon known as the Armory property.

To Amend Ch Charter.

Macon, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—When the legislature convenes in June two amendments to the charter of the city of Macon will be offered. These are now under consideration by the charter amendment committee of council and are being considered favorably.

The first will be to provide for the election of eight aldermen from the city at large and one from each of the four wards. At the present time three aldermen are elected from each of the four wards. The desire for a change has come from the fact that often it is not possible to find three men who are competent and desire to run for office from the same ward and by selecting eight of them from the city at large it is figured that the city can get the service of men whose knowledge will be valuable.

The other amendment is for the appointment of a permanent city tax assessor to replace the present board of three who work only about three months in the year.

A bill is also to be introduced in the legislature making it a violation of the law to empty sewers into the Ocmulgee river within the confines of Bibb county in order to prevent possible contamination of the water supply of Macon.

The water commissioners recently appealed to council to prevent the building of a private sewer to the river near the waterworks pumping station and council has decided that the best way to do this is through legislative enactment.

Fight Against Receiver.

Macon, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—Judge Speer, in the United States district court, will tomorrow hear the application for the appointment of a receiver for the L. Carter company, of Odom. L. Carter, the head of the company, is reputed to be a millionaire, and is interested in many financial institutions of south Georgia.

Drum Corps to Reunion.

Macon, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—The chamber of commerce has appropriated $300 to the Macon drum and bugle corps to assist that organization in its trip to the confederate reunion at Chattanooga. Recently the corps gave a minstrel show from which they cleared $700, $500 of which was used in paying for new uniforms. The trip to Chattanooga will cost a little over $500.

Two special trains will be operated from this city for the reunion, the drum and bugle corps special going over the Central of Georgia, and the confederate veterans' special over the Southern railway. Both will be well filled with people from middle and south Georgia.

Fishermen Return.

Macon, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—The members of the Gridiron Fishing club have returned from their trip to the Saillila river, reporting an enjoyable time. The largest catch during the outing was made by Judge W. H. Felton and Carl Kean, who hauled in 182 fish between 5 a. m. and noon.

OLD DARKY GETS HIS GRANDSON OUT OF GANG

Comes All Way From Chattanooga With $40 to Pay $50 Fine Which Governor Commutes.

It is seldom that anyone has the power of giving so much happiness as Governor Brown gave yesterday to Clint Greene, an old negro and ex-slave, by a simple act of mercy involving only $10.

Allen Russell, a 17-year-old negro boy, was convicted some weeks ago of stealing a pistol from a blacksmith shop and sentenced by Judge Andy Calhoun to pay a fine of $50 or serve eight months on the county chain-gang. It was a case of simple larceny just like the hundreds of others that pass through the criminal court in the course of the year. Moneyless and friendless, the lad went to the gang, apparently forgotten by all the world.

But he was not so. Away up in Chattanooga, lived old Clint, Allen's grandfather, bent with age and toil. When news reached him of the boy's distress, he at once began to save his money to pay the fine. At last, with great difficulty, he got together $40, and boarded a train for Atlanta.

Then he found that the fine was $50 and with $40 he could do nothing. Almost in despair, he at last thought of Mr. W. D. Greene, to whose family he had belonged before the war—his own family, in the old negro's mind—and to him he presented the case and made his appeal. Mr. Greene at once took the matter up with Judge Calhoun, whom he found willing to help, but who was not permitted by the law to reduce a fine once imposed, but the two took it up with the governor. When the case was explained to him the governor willingly commuted the fine to $40. Old Uncle Clint then gave up his hoard, got the boy out of the gang and returned to Chattanooga with him last night, grateful beyond his power to express.

BIG CHAIR FACTORY TO GO ON BLOCK AGAIN

Flowery Branch, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—The big $50,000 plant of the Georgia Chair company, which was recently sold at receiver's sale to M. Charles, T. T. Davie, J. W. Tanner and A. M. Orr, of Flowery Branch; C. L. White, of Buford, and A. J. Mundy and J. H. Hunt, of Gainesville, will again be offered for sale on June 1.

It is said that disagreement in regard to the future management of the plant caused the first sale to fall through.

This factory was built last year, and was forced into bankruptcy after operating about a month. It has a capacity of half a million chairs yearly and furnishes employment to several hundred people.

$100,000 PACKING HOUSE IS FORMED AT MACON

The company expects to do a general packing house business, and will draw on the stockraisers of Georgia for their supply of cattle and hogs. The main plant will be in Macon, but branches may be located elsewhere in the state.

Mrs. Mary Thornton Wins Contest for Cover Design

Miss Mary Thornton, of Atlanta, has won the $50 prize for the best cover design submitted in the contest for the Woman's Edition of The Constitution to be published by the Georgia federation in June. The Constitution offered the prize, which was planned and conducted by a committee from the Atlanta Art association, of which Mrs. Samuel M. Inman is president.

A committee appointed by Mrs. Inman and an equal number appointed from the art department of The Constitution acted as judges, and faithfully fulfilled their duties. There were sixteen designs submitted, these coming from all parts of the state, and the names of contestants were not made known until after three hours of consideration and voting the prize finally went to Miss Thornton's design as presenting the best idea and execution for the purpose.

The design will adorn the first page of the Woman's Edition of The Constitution, and is beautiful and appropriate.

Miss Thornton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Thornton, and is a bright member of this year's class of Carnegie Library school. She is a lover of art and has studied with a view to developing her talent in that direction.

Mrs. Howard Writes for Sun Story About Napoleon Murat

Mrs. Belle Newman Howard has a half page story in the New York Sun of last Sunday, on the subject of Napoleon Achille Murat, the son of Napoleon's brother, the King of Naples. It will be recalled that the young Frenchman married Miss Catherine Willis, of Tallahassee, Florida, and subsequently resided there, having served under several administrations, as postmaster in Tallahassee.

Mrs. Howard spent the past winter in Florida, and while there learned many interesting facts which she wove into the human interest story The New York Sun exploited. Mrs. Howard has recently written for another publication the story of the honeymoon of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, which they spent at Arden, N. C., where Mrs. Howard now spends her summers.

Mrs. Howard is the eldest daughter of Judge and Mrs. William T. Newman, and is one of Atlanta's most prominent and talented women. She is a student of art, as well as writer, and was for several years a member of the woman's staff of The Atlanta Journal.

Table d'Hote Dinner and Dance Every Week at Driving Club

The management of the Piedmont Driving club have decided to give their table d'hote dinner dances every Saturday evening during the summer months instead of fortnightly as heretofore. The demand for the dinners on the part of the club members testified to their popularity, and the management at once conceded to the demand.

Another innovation decided upon by the club membership is the afternoon music, which has been greatly enjoyed. The orchestra will play on the ball room porch every afternoon from 5 until 7 o'clock, not only pleasing those who assemble on the terrace for refreshments, but those who may desire to dance, the ball room to be opened.

The informal Sunday night suppers will continue to be, for the pleasure and convenience of the members, and tonight and tomorrow night will assemble many parties at the popular club.

Mother Goose Pageant.

One of the largest and most beautiful shows ever given in Atlanta will be the al fresco given by the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R. on the afternoon of May 31, on the lawn of Mrs. Clyde King in Druid Hills. The affair has grown to such proportions that it has become necessary to ask the loan of the adjacent lawns, also. All the 350 members of the chapter, led by their efficient regent, Mrs. J. A. Perdue, are lending every effort toward making this one of the most unique and interesting and varied affairs. It will partake of many of the features of a society circus.

First of all will be a baby show, in charge of Mrs. Dexter, Mrs. J. J. Spalding, Mrs. Lee Lewman, Mrs. W. F. Dykes and a large committee. While this most interesting event is taking place the parade will be formed and will circle around the lawn, the different groups forming tableaux. The parade will be led by one of the most prominent ladies in the city as Mother Goose, and will include all the Goose family, numerous fairy tales and characters from history and romance and a large miscellaneous collection of Indians, fairies, clowns, cowboys, etc. All the beautiful ponies in town will be in the march, some with Indians astride, and some ridden by dainty fairies.

After the parade, taxieaux will be formed by the various groups, one of the most interesting of which will be the Old Woman in the Shoe. This will be presented by Mrs Henry DeGive in the most artistic and inspiring manner, with fifty children of all ages.

Blue Beard and his ten wives has been arranged by Mrs Harvie Jordan with great care, and will prove quite a stunning number.

The fairies are in charge of Mrs. William Nixon; Mrs. Sherwood Higgs, Mrs. William Percy, Mrs. Albert Akers, Mrs. Dillon Akers and Mrs. Howard Candler.

Little Orphint Annie and the Goblins has been arranged by Mrs. Allan Schoen.

Mrs. A. R. Colcord has "the beggars all coming to town," and will present a large group.

Mrs. Dinkins, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Seabrook, Mrs. Owens, Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Lake are looking after Indians, cowboys and such like features.

One of the loveliest pictures will be presented by Mrs. Niles, Mrs. Woodside, and Mrs. Geuse will be Mistress Mary, and a number of young ladies dressed as flowers.

AMBASSADOR ARRIVES AT QUEENSTOWN

Queenstown, May 22.—Walter Hines Page, United States ambassador to Great Britain, parried all attempts of newspaper men to obtain an interview when he arrived here today from New York. He contented himself with the remark that his constant endeavor while holding his office would be to "maintain the more than friendly relations between the United States and the United Kingdom which had, happily, continued for such a long time."

The American consul here went on board the Baltic and delivered a package of dispatches to Ambassador Page.

U. S. A. ASSEMBLY COMES TO CLOSE

Final Session Proves One of the Most Important Held During the Atlanta Conference.

Singing that old familiar hymn,

"All hail the power of Jesus name,
Let angels prostrate fall."

the Presbyterian assembly, U. S. A., came to a final close Friday afternoon in the Baptist Tabernacle. Old wounds were healed, enmities caused during the sessions were forgotten, and the commissioners, standing with arms linked together, sang verse after verse, while tears dimmed the eyes of many.

This final session was one of the most important held during the assembly. In the morning a vain attempt was made to abolish the position of assistant clerk upon the recommendation of Stated Clerk Roberts, who said that it would be in the interests of economy.

Consolidation Deferred.

The question of proposed consolidation of the board of education and the college board, and the question of creating a single treasurer for all boards, were deferred till the 1914 assembly, which meets in Chicago.

An ineffective dight on the part of certain members of the board of home missions was squashed in the beginning by the moderator.

The committee on narrative, through its chairman, Rev. Frederick Sander, delivered a distressing report on the religious tendencies of the times. Some of the features of the report were: An alarming lack of family worship; a distressing loss of church members in many synods; that over 4,000 churches in the past ecclesiastical year failed to bring a single soul to Christ; that the white slave traffic has become appalling, extending even into Sabbath schools and Christian Endeavor societies; that there is a tendency to suspend members not from a holy desire to save souls, but from mercenary motives.

The list of ministers who died during the past year was read by Stated Clerk Roberts, and an appropriate hymn sung.

Rev. W. K. Houston, of Columbus, Ohio, secretary of the permanent committee on vacancy and supply, declared that a solution of the ministerial supply problem was impossible under the Presbyterian system of church government.

Show Sons Call of Ministry.

William T. Ellis moved that the moderator, during the coming year, take steps to urge upon fathers the necessity of showing their sons the call of the ministry. The motion was adopted.

A rising vote was given Dr. N. H. Roberts, for thirty years stated clerk of the assembly.

At the closing session in the afternoon transaction of routine business occupied most of the time of the assembly. Farewell greetings by both commissioners and officers were made. Among Atlantans called upon to speak a few parting words were Rev. Huch K. Walker, D.D., pastor of the first Presbyterian church; Rev. R. O. Flinn, pastor of North Avenue Presbyterian church; Rev. Jere A. Moore, pastor of Marris Street Presbyterian church, J. K. Orr, and S. M. Inman.

Dr. Stone, before pronouncing the moderator's final benediction, spoke a few warm hearted words, telling of his pleasure of being in Atlanta, and his sadness at leaving. One more farewell ovation was given him, and the assembly was at an end, to meet in 1914 in Chicago.

Courtesies Appreciated.

Resolutions expressing deep appreciation of the courtesies accorded them while in Atlanta were adopted unanimously Friday afternoon by the northern Presbyterians. Special mention was made of Rev. Jere A. Moore, Rev. Dunbar Ogden, J. K. Orr, Rev. R. O. Flynn and other gentlemen of Atlanta.

Deep thanks were expressed for the hospitality shown them by the families of Atlanta and faculty and students of Agnes Scott college. Special mention was made of the courtesies accorded them by Postmaster McKee and his clerks and the press.

REPUBLICANS MAY CALL NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Executive Body Will Decide Whether Time Is Ripe to Organize for Future.

Washington, May 23.—The republican national executive committee, which meets here tomorrow at the call of Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the national committee, primarily will consider the advisability of calling an early meeting of the national committee to consider plans for strengthening the party lines preparatory to the next congressional campaign.

Before determining to call the committee together it will be decided whether the time is ripe for the beginning of organization for the future, or whether it might be better to wait until the present democratic administration has proceeded farther on its way; until after the opposition tariff law has been written into the statutes and effect on the country analyzed.

Called Premature.

Some of the party leaders are firmly of the mind that the agitation for a reorganization meeting of the national convention this coming fall is premature, and it should be chiefly to consider the advisability of such a convention that the national committee would meet. The progressive wing will strongly urge the executive committee to issue a call to the national committee.

The conciliation committee named as a result of the recent Chicago conference met today in Senator Cummins' office and decided to send a letter to the committee asking that the national committee be assembled and setting forth the progressive republicans' views as to reorganization of the party, changes in delegate representation, methods of handling contests and other matters. The letter will be sent to the executive committee addressed to National Chairman Hilles, and the members of the conciliation committee expect they may be called upon to appear before the committee further to explain their views.

Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, who smilingly evaded today that he belonged to the "so-called reactionaries," in discussing the urgent demand of the progressives for a national convention, declared that when the time came for reorganization the republican party would reorganize itself. Senator Smoot, mind of the same mind, and there are other party leaders in and out of congress who will oppose a national convention this year.

Smoke Clearing Away.

"There is no law to prevent the suggestions of such a foolish thing as Senator Cummins and his friends propose," said Senator Gallinger. "The smoke of the last defeat has not yet cleared away. But it is a fact that it is clearing away, and conditions in the party are rapidly improving without any convention. There is nothing to be gained by so unusual a proceeding as a session of the national convention this year."

Some of the members of the national executive committee are in Washington, and others will arrive early tomorrow with Chairman Hilles. None here would indicate what might be done with respect to calling the national committee. Some favor the proposal, believing that all the questions now agitating the party should be discussed at this time. Some of these, however, do not favor a national convention this year. Senator Cummins expressed the belief tonight that the national committee would be called. He was unwilling to predict its action, however, regarding a party convention.

TARIFF AND CURRENCY TO KEEP CONGRESS BUSY

Washington, May 23.—Congress is too busy with tariff and currency reform to plan for a new department of public works, in the opinion of Speaker Clark and Vice President Marshall, to whom the educational committee of the national drainage congress appealed today. Both officials expressed sympathy, however, with the desire of the drainage advocates for greater federal attention to reclamation and flood control. Members of the committee will now undertake to draft a bill for the establishment of the new department in the hope that the attention of congress can be secured if a detailed plan is laid before it.

PHILIPPINES EASY PREY FOR THE JAPS

Col. Van Orsdale Believes War Would Likely Result in Capture of Islands.

While he does not anticipate any immediate danger from a Japanese invasion, Colonel J. F. Van Orsdale, commanding Fort McPherson, yesterday stated that, in the event of such a move on the part of Japan, the United States would find themselves in an embarrassing situation, owing to the fact that they are far from being prepared for such an emergency.

Colonel Van Orsdale states it is his belief that, in case of war with Japan, the Philippines would be the first point of attack by the Japs, and that the capture and possession of the islands for a time by the forces of Japan would be inevitable. Japan would also be able to maintain a foothold on the west coast for several months, thinks Colonel Van Orsdale, and would give the United States great trouble in dislodging them.

He suggests an enlargement of the standing army, the upbuilding of a reserve to the standing army, the efficient training of the national guard and the provision of an adequate means of quickly making volunteers ready for active service as a remedy for the situation.

Colonel Van Orsdale does not believe that any recent activities in army circles have direct bearing upon the Japanese situation.

DYNAMITE PLANTER PAID BY COMPANY

Checks Given to F. E. Atteaux by American Woolen Company Introduced by State.

Boston, May 23.—Checks and vouchers for several payments made by the American Woolen company to Frederick E. Atteaux were introduced by the state this morning at the opening of today's session of the trial of Atteaux, William M. Wood and Dennis J. Collins.

The first of the vouchers showed the payment of $505 to Atteaux "for expenses incurred during the Lawrence strike." This was drawn on March 22, 1912. Another check for $2,100 was drawn on June 26, this being marked "in full for all claims to date."

The vouchers indicated that the payments were authorized by President Wood. Both checks were indorsed with Atteaux's signature.

The exhibits were offered in support of the government's claim that the defendants conspired with John J. Breen and Ernest W. Pitman to "plant" dynamite in the homes of the strikers at Lawrence in order to give the impression to the public that the strikers contemplated blowing up the American Woolen company's mill.

The state attempted to show that President Wood was involved and that the American Woolen company, through Wood, had helped pay the expenses of the conspiracy.

Papers as Evidence.

Edward B. Lynch, paying teller of the Federal Trust company, of this city, where Atteaux had funds on deposit, took the stand and identified Atteaux's signature on four or five papers while District Attorney J. C. Pelletier offered as exhibit. Henry F. Hurlburt, of counsel for Mr. Wood, objected to their admission as evidence against his client. He argued that the exhibits were not competent until some connection should be established between the papers and the alleged conspiracy. The district attorney replied that the papers would speak for themselves and would show the payment of money from one defendant to another.

Judge Crosby admitted the exhibits with the understanding that they would be competent only in the event that some connection between the papers and the alleged conspiracy should be established by evidence.

The district attorney read the papers to the jury. One of them was the check for $505, drawn on the National Shawmut bank of Boston, payable to and indorsed by Atteaux and signed "American Woolen company, W. W. Currier, assistant treasurer."

Accompanying the check was an American Woolen company voucher, on which Atteaux's signature appeared, and was a receipt for $505 "for expenses incurred during the Lawrence strike," according to the inscription on it. The voucher also bore the words "approved—William M. Wood, president."

Another exhibit was a check for $2,100 drawn on the Beacon Trust company, Boston, on June 26, 1912, payable to and indorsed by Atteaux. This check bore the signature of William H. Dwelley, Jr., treasurer of the American Woolen company.

The voucher which accompanied the check bore the approval of Mr. Wood and an inscription on it said, "in full for all claims to date."

The district attorney then called William H. Dwelley, Jr., treasurer of the American Woolen company, and questioned him. Mr. Dwelley told of being called into Mr. Wood's office one day when the latter told him that he had settled in full with Atteaux. At Mr. Wood's direction, Dwelley made out the check and voucher. That was the day, he said, on which the company was paying the attorneys in connection with Lawrence strike affairs.

Atteaux Offered Services.

Dwelley testified to having heard Atteaux offer his services to Mr. Wood in an effort to settle the strike.

Dwelley was questioned regarding the payment of United Seed accounts. Except for the purchase of merchandise, Dwelley said it was the company's rule not to require an itemized account for expenses incurred by any officer or any regular or special employee of the company.

The witness said he had known Atteaux twenty years. He often saw him at the office of the American Woolen company both before and during the strike.

The district attorney endeavored to learn from Dwelley when he saw Atteaux with relation to the discovery of dynamite at Lawrence on January 29, 1912. The witness could not recall the dates of Atteaux's call and said that Atteaux might have called at the woolen company's office at that time. The witness said that he thought Atteaux was at the company's office about January 25.

ORIENTAL SLAVE GIRLS ARE RESCUED BY POLICE

San Francisco, May 23.—Five oriental slave girls were rescued today from their prison on the third floor of an alley tenement in Chinatown, after the police had battered their way with axes upstairs through a succession of barred and armored doors.

One of the girls said she was native-born, but the police doubt her story, for she could speak scarcely a word of English.

All the girls and their duennas were held for deportation.

ADAMSON WILL HEAD COMMERCE COMMITTEE

Ways and Means Committee Tentatively Agree on Number of Chairmanships.

Washington, May 23.—Democratic members of the ways and means committee, it was asserted today, have agreed tentatively upon a number of the committees of the house.

The immigration committee chairmanship will be retained by Representative Burnett, of Alabama.

The interstate commerce committee will be almost completely changed. Representative Houston, of Tennessee, must drop out to retain the chairmanship of the census committee, and Representative Smith, of Texas, to keep his irrigation chairmanship.

House leaders have made tentative selections for chairmanships of the following committees:

Agriculture, Lever, South Carolina; appropriations, Fitzgerald, New York; banking and currency, Glass, Virginia; District of Columbia, Johnson, Kentucky; education, Hobson, Alabama; foreign affairs, Flood, Virginia; immigration, Burnett, Alabama; interstate and foreign commerce, Adamson, Georgia; judiciary, Clayton, Alabama; labor, Maher, New York; merchant marine, Alexander, Missouri; military affairs, Hay, Virginia; naval affairs, Padgett, Tennessee; postoffice, Moon, Tennessee; public lands, Ferris, Oklahoma; rivers and harbors, Sparkman, Florida; insular affairs, Jones, Virginia.

HE WAS DRIVEN MAD BY GREAT SUCCESS OF MANY SWINDLES

Chicago, May 23.—Government officials have received word of the death in London of Louis A. Gourdain, who swindled the public out of several large fortunes, which he squandered, and whose success drove him mad.

Starting twenty-seven years ago as a clerk for the Louisiana State Lottery company, Gourdain organized a rival concern which netted him $750,000, it is estimated. The money came so fast his mind was affected and he was sent to a hospital for the insane. After driving through New Orleans in a bath robe and attempting to make street speeches. Later he was convicted by the government of operating a lottery and served a six months' sentence. He drifted to New York and opened what he called a bank, which was a lottery scheme. He was convicted and served a year on Blackwell's island. He showed up next in Omaha and later in New Orleans, where he bought 1,280 acres of swamp, which he converted into 135,000 oil lots. In Chicago he opened the "Manhattan Exchange bank," and is said to have turned $5,500 into a million.

For this scheme he was sentenced to serve four years in the penitentiary. An appeal was taken and Gourdain went to the prison gates and pleaded for admission. He bought a mansion in Joliet, where the state prison is located, for his wife, and purchased ground upon which to build a private prison. Before work was started on the building the supreme court affirmed his sentence.

Gourdain, a sensational escape from the Washington, D. C., asylum in 1908 and had not since been heard from.

CURRENCY COMMITTEE WEIGHING MANY BILLS

Improbable That Effort Will Be Made at Present Session to Reform Banking Laws.

Washington, May 23.—In addition to conducting hearings and digesting the answers to questions which are to be propounded to bankers and financial experts the senate banking and currency committee will discuss numerous bills proposed to reform the financial system of the country before it presents a measure to the senate.

Chairman Owen and many other members of the committee are engaged in drawing up bills designed to alter the currency system and it will be necessary for the committee to consider all of them before it settles upon a measure that it can support. It is regarded as improbable that an effort will be made at the present session to reform the banking laws, but attention will be focused on the need for more elastic currency and for mobilization of reserves so that they can be utilized quickly in case of financial stress.

Republican leaders are convinced there is little likelihood of radical legislation on currency subjects.

They do not believe serious effort will be made to provide for guarantee of bank deposits and they hope some sort of central association will be provided.

The subcommittee authorized to settle upon a list of questions to bankers met today but did not complete its task. Dr. A. Piatt Andrew, former assistant secretary of the treasury and one of the experts of the monetary commission, sat with the committeemen and offered suggestions for questions. A final draft will be laid by the subcommittee Monday by Chairman Owen, who also will draw up a letter to accompany the list.

MANY RIVALS BOUGHT UP BY SHOE MACHINERY CO.

Boston, May 23.—Further evidence of the buying up of rivals and the disappearance of the latter from the field of their former activity was presented by the government today in its suit to dissolve the United Shoe Machinery company.

During the first year of its existence the company bought up nine companies, only two of which are doing business today. Seven companies were bought up during the second year, of which only two now are in operation. The government contends that all of these companies were acquired in pursuance of a plan to monopolize the shoe machinery business of the country. The defense admits the acquisition of the companies, but denies the plan to monopolize.

100 FEDERALS AMBUSHED AND KILLED BY REBELS

Gov. Carranza Warns England and Prince Against Negotiating Loan With Huerta.

Eagle Pass, May 23.—In a battle near Sacramento in northeast Mexico, 100 federals were ambushed and killed by constitutionalists, according to reports brought here today by constitutionalist leaders, who are gathering across the river from here for a general military conference.

Carveo, a former follower of Orosco, lead the federals at Sacramento. This victory gave the constitutionalists possession of all towns between Calitllo and Monclova. Huerta's opponents claim also to have captured the cities of Tactatecas, Parras and San Pedro de Colonias, near Torreon.

Eagle Pass, Tex., May 23.—In a statement today during a conference of his military advisers, Governor Carranza, the Mexican constitutional leader, announced he had cabled to the "prime ministers" of England and France warning them of complications if European capitalists negotiate the Huerta loan and pledge customs receipts. He cabled that if the constitutionalist movement succeeds, an attempt by England or France to collect this loan might provoke war with Mexico. He asked the ministers to make his statement public.

APPEALS FOR CLEMENCY GRANTED BY PRESIDENT

Washington, May 23.—President Wilson today disposed of twenty-eight appeals for clemency, restoring civil rights in thirteen cases, granting two pardons, commuting the sentences of seven prisoners and denying the applications of six.

The five-year sentence of Albert Shoenle for embezzling funds of the Central National bank of St. Louis, Mo., was commuted to one year and a day.

Harry T. Lee, who pleaded guilty to abstracting money of the National Bank of Lawrence County, Newcastle, Pa., likewise received a commutation of his five-year sentence to a term of one year and a day.

The prisoner's father had mortgaged his home and paid off the entire amount of $1,805 under the impression that his son would not be prosecuted.

The president commuted to thirteen months the five-year sentence imposed on Silas Rich, at Portland, Oreg., for falsifying records of the National Bank of Salem, Ore.

The trial judge and prosecuting attorney said the sentence was excessive.

The Gulls evened the count Friday. Hogg hurling a splendid game, allowing the Crackers but six scattered bingles and received splendid support.

HOGG USES BRUSH—TODAY'S GAME AT 3

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

Will History Repeat.

MIKE FINN'S teams have always looked like pennant winners or contenders in the early part of the season and then slipped as things began to warm up somewhat and the other clubs struck their real stride. Maybe this year's team is going to be the exception, but at their present gait it begins to look like history will repeat itself.

Pitchers Did It.

THE GULLS' pitchers have been keeping the team in the pennant hunt. When they started to slip the entire team went with them. At that, a review of the early games of the season will show that the Gulls' twirlers were winning ball games and allowing the opposition nine hits at that. Nothing in the world but the good breaks can account for this.

Vote of Thanks.

THE OTHER clubs can thank their lucky stars that the Crackers' twirlers were not going as good as the Gulls'. If they had the league would have had to choose up and start over again by this time. Nothing in the world but poor pitching has kept the Crackers from forging to the front, and now that the hurlers are showing consistently it will be a matter of but a few weeks before someone will be yelling, "Head off those Crackers." Watch this prediction.

This Shows It.

BARNEY SHERIDAN, in The Mobile Register, comments on the Crackers in part as follows: "After seeing all clubs in action, the opinion was ventured in this column that only one club looked dangerous—Atlanta—and that still goes. Bill Smith's club though they dropped four here, will win with good pitching. They seem to have it now, and notice they're winning regularly. The Crackers are over their slump and going good again. Even if Birmingham did win five out of the last six games, we'd rather see the Gulls playing 'em for the balance of the week than Atlanta."

Bout Postponed.

THE BIG BATTLE at the Auditorium-Armory between Jim Savage and Jim Flynn has been postponed until June 13 by the promoters, owing to the possibility of some conflicting dates in which the two rivales might figure. Incidentally, the winner of the bout will probably get a fling at Gunboat Smith some time in the near future thereafter.

A Merry War.

HUGH ROBERTS, sporting editor of The Birmingham Age-Herald, and Barney Sheridan, of The Mobile Register, are having a merry war of words these days, the distance between the cities preventing further bellicose action than this. Roberts refers to Sheridan as the "amateur sport writer of The Mobile Register, and Barney retorts with "the grouch of the Southern League." Sic 'em, Tike.

How Terrible.

C. WEBB MURPHY, czar of the Chicago Cubs, threatens to fine any of his players who are caught talking baseball with the scribes. We scribes should worry. Let him fine them. Half of the interviews the players never see anyway, so where does Murphy come in?

Waking Him Up.

JOHNNY EVERS has asked for waivers on Ed Reulbach, one of the veteran hurlers on the Cubs' staff. This is not the first time that waivers have been asked on the veteran and it may be possible that Evers is only doing so to wake him up, just as Frank Chance did a couple of years ago.

Abolish Commission.

THE FANS should rise up in arms if the Chalmers trophy commission overlooks Ty Cobb this year and hands the palm to anyone else as being the best ball player in the American league. Tris Speaker got the trophy last year. Tris is a fine fellow, but in all around effectiveness he approaches Cobb just about so closely as a one-lung auto does a six-cylinder, which is some approaching.

In the Favorite.

JEROME TRAVERS, the amateur golf champion and winner of the Metropolitan golf championship twice, seems scheduled to win the event again this season. If he does so, golfers are speculating as to whether he will retain the trophy or whether it will be up to be contested for again. In all golf tourneys when a player wins the trophy three times, it usually goes to him. But it is said that according to the deed of gift there is no such provision in the Metropolitan tourney.

75-FOOTERS TO RACE FOR AMERICA'S CUP

New York, May 23.—The belief was generally expressed among members of the New York Yacht club today that committees of the Royal Ulster Yacht club and the New York Yacht club had reached a satisfactory understanding regarding a series of races for the America's cup during the autumn of 1914.

It was stated, although unofficially, that the competing yachts would be 75-footers, and that the races would be held under the new rules of the New York Yacht club. An official statement from the committee in charge of the negotiations is expected within the next twenty-four hours.

Ex-Mercer Twirler Blanks Crackers in Second Contest; Final Game of Series Today

By Dick Jemison.

Bradley Hogg, former Mercer university twirler, pinned it on the Crackers Friday afternoon, evening the series for his team.

Hogg was in invincible form, allowing but six widely scattered bingles and smearing the locals with whitewash. He was simply unbeatable. The big fellow had everything—speed, control, nice breaks and a good change of pace.

By way of passing, Hogg has added some five inches to his stature since we last saw him, and a good 40 pounds to his avoirdupois. But it seems to agree with him. In fact, he is the ideal build for a hurler.

Paul Musser, who pitched against Hogg, was touched up rather lively by the Gulls, ten bingles being registered off his delivery, clusters coming in three innings and producing the necessary counters to pack the game on ice.

Early Game Today.

The Gulls proved better mud horses than the Crackers. The field Friday was not conducive to very good ball playing, yet there have been a lot worse games of ball than the one staged Friday.

But for the fact that today's game has to be called at 3 o'clock to permit the Gulls to catch a train home for a game with the Pelicans on Sunday, the chances are that the fray would have been postponed and a double bill slated this afternoon.

Today's battle will start promptly at 3 o'clock, and the chances are that it will be called at 4:40 to permit the Gulls to catch that late afternoon train for home.

The Gulls showed considerable improvement in their playing over what they showed on Thursday. They looked just as good Friday as the Crackers did on Thursday, but the Crackers did not look as bad as they did the day before. Hogg alone was the difference.

Two nice pick-ups by Joe Agler on the initial cushion were the only things that bordered on anything sensational in the way of fielding. Robertson's work in right field, however, was splendid. He nailed four flies after hard runs. Every chance he had was a hard one, and every catch was made just when it appeared as if the Crackers were going to spring a rally.

How Runs Counted.

With one gone in the second inning, Schmidt splashed one through the pitcher's box for a bingle, and went to second when Hogg worked Musser for free transportation. Starr's hard smash to right counted Schmidt.

In the fifth a flock of four tallies trickled over the platter. With one gone, Hogg smashed one to the middle meadow for a cushion and advanced to second when Stock walked. Starr filled the bases with a clean hit to right field. O'Dell went out and things looked bright.

Musser here handed Jacobsen one about his shoulders and he poled it safe, two runs clattering across the pan. Knowing this fellow's weakness on a low curve, it is the height of folly to feed him one in his groove. Clark kept up the good work by bounding one off of Welchonce's knee for two sacks, Jacobsen and Starr romping home.

The final tally came in the sixth. Faulet splashed a slow one through the box and, although Bisland made a brave effort, even had he picked it up, Gene would have beaten the throw to first. Schmidt sent him to second on an infield out, and Stock counted him with a smasher past third.

Price and Robertson will probably be the opposing hurlers this afternoon.

RITCHIE-RIVERS BATTLE JULY 4

Lightweights to Meet at San Francisco to Settle the Championship on That Date.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23.—A battle for the lightweight championship between Willie Ritchie, the title holder, and Joe Rivers, of this city, to be fought in San Francisco July 4, was assured today by announcement of Rivers' manager.

There has been dispute as to who would meet Ritchie, who came to terms with a San Francisco promoter some time ago. Rivers was the first choice, but he was under agreement for the date with a local club.

For the date with a local club, stiff for the bout followed between the promoters. Ritchie's manager had said his man would fight in San Francisco only, and this left the question of the champion's opponent up in the air until today's announcement.

CHAMP TRAVERS REACHES FINALS

Plays Alfred Kammer for the Metropolitan Golf Championship at New York Today.

New York, May 23.—The issue for the Metropolitan golf championship title will be fought out tomorrow between Jerome D. Travers, the present champion, and Alfred D. Kammer on the Fox Hills Golf course. Travers, by steady playing, has easily defeated everyone so far opposed to him.

In the third round today, playing against Chisholm Beach, Travers, after winning by 7 up and 5 to go, played out the bye-holes and made a new amateur competitive record of seventy for the course.

Later Travers defeated Oswald Kirkby, the New Jersey state champion, by 2 up in his semi-final match.

RODEL BEATS KEARNS; COFFEY BESTS FLYNN

New York, May 23.—Two heavyweight boxing matches were staged at Madison Square Garden tonight, George Rodel, "the Boer," beating "Soldier" Kearns in eight out of ten rounds, and Jim Coffey, "the Dublin giant," outpointed Jim Flynn, of Pueblo, after a hard session. Coffey exhibited much cleverness. Flynn at times standing still while Coffey rained a shower of lefts and rights to his face and head. Flynn did a lot of rushing and worked mostly for the body, having his opponent backing away during the last rounds, but Coffey's cleverness at long distance was too much for the western man. Coffey weighed 193 pounds and Flynn 191.

In the other bouts scorns weighed 202 pounds and Rodel 186. Rodel despehded on his left hand nearly all through the fight. Kearns knocked Rodel down for a count of five with a right on the jaw in the second round. At the final bell Kearns' face was bruised and swollen and his left eye closed.

SISSON DELIVERS DENATURED TALK

No War Speech, But Attack on Treaty Powers That Supersede Law Powers of States.

Washington, May 23.—Representative Sisson, of Mississippi, made his announced Japanese speech today in the house. President Wilson, after Mr. Sisson recently made a "war speech," called the Mississippian to the white house and asked him not to make another speech that might complicate diplomatic negotiations with Japan or inflame the public mind. Mr. Sisson today disclaimed any intention of making a "war speech," but attacked the position that the treaty-making power superseded the law-making powers of the sovereign states.

Mr. Sisson declared he took his position not "because the Japanese were involved," that he would take it toward England, France, Germany or any other nation and that it only required "patience and cool heads for both countries to arrive at an amicable, fair and just settlement of all differences."

Foreign Dictation.

"If any nation," he said, "should decide that they will dictate to us our land laws, then we would be unworthy of national existence if we submitted to such dictation. Does anyone claim that this is a declaration of war because I announce this truth?

"It is no declaration of war for the United States government to decline to override the rights of a sovereign state at the dictation of a foreign power. If the United States government should deliver a state over to the mercies of a flood of aliens from any nation, then I maintain that the federal government would have prostituted its authority. Is the mere announcement of this principle a declaration of war?

"Nothing has been further from my mind than to embarrass or to tend to render more difficult the peaceful solution of whatever differences, real or imaginary, may exist between the friendly government of Japan and our own government."

Mr. Sisson pleaded for the open door on treaty sessions of the senate.

"If the president and senate can make such a treaty, let us tear down every door of secrecy. Let us require the president to publish every letter and telegram bearing upon a contemplated treaty on the very moment of its despatch. Let the cloture of the senate be removed. Throw open the doors."

Mr. Sisson made a lengthy argument purporting to show the possibility of corporation control of land which would be made possible by allowing the importation of "cheap alien labor."

Cheap Alien Labor.

"Many of these large employers of labor," he said, "would be delighted to have the federal government, through its treaty-making power, let down the bars and let the alien come in. What would become of the American farmer if the great corporations of the country should buy all the best lands and cultivate them with Mongolian, Chinese, Hindu, Japanese and other cheap alien labor?

"In California individuals and corporations owning great tracts of land are cultivating them with Hindustani, Chinese, Mexicans and Japanese. It is this class of land owners and land monopolists who are opposed to all restrictions upon labor importation into this country.

"The rich and the powerful who purchase labor will have their fortunes vastly increased by having all barriers to cheap labor broken down. They know that the quickest and surest route is through the treaty-making power because they only deal first with one man, the president, and one body, two-thirds of the senate.

"I don't want this government to be destroyed through the treaty-making power."

Mr. Sisson concluded:

"So, gentlemen of the house, I have taken this position, not because the Japanese are involved in this controversy, but I would take this position if England, Germany, France or any other nation on earth were involved."

CREATORS OF WAR SCARE ENEMIES OF CIVILIZATION

Detroit, Mich., May 23.—The man who, by word or deed, creates bad feeling between the United States and Japan is an enemy of civilization," declared James H. Franklin, of Boston, foreign secretary of the American Baptist Foreign Missionary society, in an address today before the Northern Baptist convention. Secretary Franklin, discussing a recent tour he made in Japan, said the "Japanese people want no trouble with the United States unless the trouble is forced on them in defense of what they consider their national honor.

"The Japanese newspapers are absolutely fair," said Mr. Franklin, "in their reports of news of a religious or moral nature. Their libraries are stocked with the best books in the world.

"With all the earnestness which I can command, I say that the Japanese are entitled to the respect and confidence of the world. We condemn in the Japanese the very traits on which Americans and Englishmen pride themselves—shrewdness and independence. In fact, the Japanese are known everywhere as the yankees of the East."

"DICK" MANSTON NOW WITH THE SOUTHERN ENGRAVING COMPANY

During the past week R. E. Manston, dean of the Atlanta photogravers, has accepted a position with the Southern Engraving company. "Dick" Manston, as he is known to almost everybody in Atlanta, has been in the engraving business for about twenty years and is recognized in his trade as one of if not the most experienced man in his line in the entire country.

"DICK" MANSTON.

For a number of years Mr. Manston has been working in the various newspaper engraving plants and his many friends will be glad to know that he is again with a commercial shop where he can handle their work for them as he is engaged entirely with commercial work at the Southern.

Sidney Agnelly, of New Orleans, has also been added to the working force of the Southern Engraving company during the past week, and will do the same work on the night force that Mr. Manston does on the day crew. Agnelly while new to Atlanta, has for some time been recognized in the trade as one of the top-notchers in the south.

M'AFEE MUST PAY FINE OR GO TO CHAINGANG

Dr. W. W. McAfee, who, for a number of years, has been a druggist and pharmacist in Atlanta, was sentenced to twelve months in the chaingang or to pay $1,000, following his conviction yesterday in the city criminal court on a charge of selling cocaine illegally.

It was charged against Dr. McAfee that he sold the insiduous drug to Tom Medley, without having first obtained an order or prescription from a regular practicing physician.

Police and detectives have been working on this case for several months, on the claim that the druggist had been violating the law and openly conducting the sale of the drug. Policeman T. O. Sturdivant appeared as the main witness against Dr. McAfee when the case was called before Judge Andrew E. Calhoun.

EMPEROR OF JAPAN HOLDING HIS OWN

Multitudes of Yoshihito's Loyal Subjects Pray for His Recovery in Streets Near the Palace.

Tokio, May 24.—A bulletin issued this morning announced that the temperature of the emperor was 99.2 degrees, pulse 76 and respiration 26. Government officials say the emperor passed a favorable night; that his condition this morning is satisfactory, and that there is no cause for anxiety. A ministerial order, issued today, authorizes reopening of theaters and other places of entertainment.

The palace, at the Asama palace, on whose immense parade grounds he contracted a cold while reviewing the troops last Sunday. It had been intended to receive him at once to the newer Chyioda palace, but the sudden serious turn of inflammation of the lungs necessitated abandonment of the plan.

Shock to People.

Issuance of the first bulletin yesterday announcing the emperor's illness came as a great shock to the people, and as it gained circulation through extra editions of the newspapers, a sorrowful hush fell upon the city, and crowds silently assembled in front of the royal palace. The people knelt and prayed fervently for their sovereign's speedy recovery.

The Ginza, the most important thoroughfare of the city, which usually is brilliantly lighted, was dark last evening and almost deserted. All the shops were closed.

Court circles are still in official mourning for the late Emperor Mutsuhito. The period does not expire until July 30, a year from the date of his death.

The young emperor is holding his own, according to officials at the palace. They declared this afternoon that his prospects of recovery were more hopeful.

Multitudes of Japanese prayed throughout the day in streets near the palace, in the temples and in churches.

Message to Wilson.

Washington, May 23.—"His majesty is progressing satisfactorily," was the statement contained in a bulletin received by the Japanese embassy from Tokio today at 5 p. m. this afternoon. The temperature is stated at 99.7 (centigrade), and a pulse of 90.

The first bulletin received at the embassy from Tokio today was timed at 7 a. m. in Tokio and was as follows:

"Temperature 38.7 pulse 87, respiration 30."

President Wilson today received the following cablegram from Emperor Yoshihito, of Japan:

"Deeply touched by your kind message inquiring after my indisposition, I express my sincere thanks to yourself, government and the people of the United States."

MANY PENSIONERS FAIL TO CALL FOR MONEY

While the rush of pensioners to receive the amount allowed them by the state for their service to the confederacy was heavy on the day, over a month ago, when Ordinary John R. Wilkinson received the pension money, a number of pensioners of all classes have not yet called for their allowance. Unless they do so immediately the ordinary will be required to turn this back into the state treasury.

The names of those who are entitled to pensions but who have not drawn them, have been announced by Ordinary Wilkinson, with the request that they call at once at his office. They are William M. Barton's widow, Mathew C. Gilbert's widow, Robert F. DeBell, Marcus L. Hicks, John Blatts, Perry M. DeLeon, and Mesdames Judy Ann Rogers, Susan A. Giles, Sarah M. Fyson, S. J. Cochran, Rozie Gray, Mary E. Berry, R. V. Cobb, Nancy Ader.....and C. E. Jones.

FIFTH REGIMENT BAND AT PARK TOMORROW

There will be a concert by the Fifth Regiment Brass band at Grant park tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. The money to pay for the concert has been furnished by the Georgia Railway and Power company. If council will furnish part of the money for concerts the rest of the summer, the company will furnish the balance, and the public will be entertained with free concerts at the park each Sunday afternoon.

Unless council does appropriate money for the purpose, however, it is not likely that the concerts will be continued. As the railroad company has defrayed most of the expenses of music at the park for several seasons past, it is said to be unwilling to carry the burden longer without help from the city.

INSPECTION AT FORT MAY BE POSTPONED

It is uncertain this morning whether the annual inspection of the United States troops stationed at Fort McPherson will be held this afternoon or postponed until Monday morning on account of the weather. The inspection was scheduled for 3:30 o'clock this morning, but was postponed until this afternoon on account of wet grounds. Unless the grounds are in condition by this afternoon another postponement will be necessary, Colonel J. F. Van Orsdale, in command of the fort, announced last night.

The inspection of the six companies stationed at Fort McPherson will prove an interesting spectacle. They will pass in review and afterwards go through various maneuvers of warfare. Field guns and entrenchments will be used.

GIRL STRANGLED, SAYS INDICTMENT

Grand Jury Is Now Engaged in Conducting Investigation of the Murder of Mary Phagan.

That the state in its bills of indictment for the murder of Mary Phagan, brought separately against Leo M. Frank and Newt Lee, charges that the girl was strangled, was learned yesterday afternoon following the adjournment of the grand jury, which took up the case at 11 o'clock in the morning and went into its details until 1:45.

Shortly after the adjournment of the grand jury Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey expressed himself as well pleased with the results of the morning session.

"I am well satisfied with results to the present time," said the solicitor when asked how the case was progressing.

"No, I can't say how many or what witnesses I will place on the stand tomorrow," he replied. "That depends to a great extent on the members of the grand jury and on how they feel in regard to the matter."

Hearing Resumed Today.

The hearing will be resumed at 10 o'clock today, and according to Solicitor Hugh Dorsey, he is uncertain as to whether or not a conclusion will be reached during the day's session, which is expected to adjourn shortly after 1 o'clock.

Six witnesses were taken before the grand jury by the solicitor in his attempt to secure indictments. The indictments were drawn separately, but were presented at the same time, and the men held are charged with murder, that being the charge upon which the coroner's jury bound them over to the grand jury.

Witnesses Before Jury.

The witnesses examined were Dr. J. W. Hurt, recently elected county physician, who examined the body before it was interred; Police Sergeant L. S. Dobbs, one of the officers who first found the body; W. Pinkerton, the machinist who found the evidences of blood and hair on a machine in the factory; "Boots" Rogers, in whose machine the officers rode to the factory on the morning the girl was found, and City Detective J. N. Starnes, whose name appears as prosecutor on both bills of indictment.

Dr. Hurt stated that he had told the grand jury practically what he told the coroner's jury when they were investigating the case. He was the first witness called Friday morning.

The other witnesses were called upon in the order named, and each one was required to go into detail as to his knowledge of the crime. Detective Starnes was kept in the jury room seven minutes longer than any other witness and probably testified in all about half an hour.

"I told them enough to fill a book," he remarked on coming out, "but if I had been given time to tell all that I know about this case I would have been enough to fill a library."

What other witnesses the solicitor will call today has not been indicated by him. His research, however, he says he intends to secure indictments, if possible, with the use of as few witnesses as possible, but to place as many as he can before the jury should they desire to go more into detail and not be satisfied with the first set of witnesses.

There are believed to be two reasons for this: First, that he naturally wishes to save the members of the grand jury as much time as possible and to save the state what expense he can, and, second, and most important, that he feels that he should not show his hand, even before the grand jury, any more than is absolutely necessary.

Of the twenty-three men on the grand jury all but two were present at the call. M. Beutell, who had been excused in M. eutell, who had been excused in order that he might accompany the Old Guard on its eastern trip, and George Gershon, who had been excused to go to New York city.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

CLIMB IS CHECKED IN STOCK MARKET

Speculation Lacked the Vitality to Carry Further Upward Movement of Thursday.

New York, May 23.—Speculation lacked the vitality necessary to carry further yesterday's upward movement of stocks and the effect of today's trading on the average of quoted values was negible. The list opened fractionally lower and although there was no pronounced pressure stocks sagged generally during the fore part of the day. Subsequently the market moved upward slowly, cancelling the early losses in most cases.

There was renewed liquidation in some quarters of the list. Pennsylvania declined to 109¾, the low price for the movement. St. Louis and San Francisco securities continued their precipitate decline. The first preferred touched 31¼, a decline of nearly 7 points, and the second preferred declined 11, a two-point fall.

The cables reported hesitation in the foreign markets and London sold about 5,000 shares here on balance. Conflicting reports were received as to the effect on sentiment abroad of the flotation of the Chinese loan, and it was assumed that no influence upon the investment situation was as indefinite as the New York city bond issue here, the direct stimulus hoped for having been impaired in neither case.

Another gain in cash by the banks as a result of the week's operations was predicted. Forecasts of tomorrow's bank statement pointed to a cash gain of around $5,000,000. Bonds were irregular with a downward tendency. Total sales, par value, $1,450,000. United States 2's coupon declined ¼ and the fours coupon ⅝ on call, the latter receding to 114. Later 114¾ was bid.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, May 23.—The stocks stopped covering today, and encouraged by good weather reports, the bears began to sell freely again. The opening was at about the same level as yesterday's close and during the morning there was a good tone to the market. July turned weak during the afternoon and carried the whole list down with it. The close was steady with July down nine points and October down seven. It looks very much as if the difference between July and the new crop months were going to narrow. Liverpool is due to come 5½ down on July-August and ½ down on new crop months.

London Stock Market.

London, May 23.—The stock market was weak during the forenoon, when uncertainty regarding the peace negotiations and sales to take up new issues caused a general sagging in values. The tone was more cheerful in the afternoon and prices recovered on local covering and fresh support.

American securities opened quiet and a fraction higher. Realizing followed and most of the list fell below parity before noon. The closing tone was unsettled.

American securities opened quiet and a fraction higher today. Realizing followed. At noon the market was easy with prices ranging from ⅛ above to ⅝ below yesterday's New York closing.

RAIN REPORTS LESSEN BULLISH ENTHUSIASM

Market Closes Heavy at Prices Varying From Thursday's Level to 5-8 Below.

Chicago, May 23.—Statements that rain within a week or so would correct much of the crop damage in Kansas served today to lessen bullish enthusiasm regarding wheat. The market closed heavy at prices varying from last night's level to ⅝ below. Other leading staples all showed net gains—corn ⅛ to ⅝, oats ⅛@⅜ to ⅝@⅝, and provisions 2½@5 to 22½c.

Latest estimates of the probable wheat yield in Kansas were 110,000,000 to 115,000,000 bushels, against a total of 90,000,000 bushels figured out for the day by one influential authority. Warmer weather northwest and continued slow merchandising trade had effect also on the bear side. Big world shipments promised, made wheat longs willing to take profits. This was done largely at the expense of eleventh hour investors and belated bears who for a while carried the market sharply higher. When these buyers were supplied, however, prices fell back, limp.

Primary receipts of wheat today were 453,000 bushels; a year ago 306,000.

Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equalled 486,000 bushels.

In corn the fact that the country had tightened up one offerings led to covering by a number of big shorts. One concern alone bought a million bushels. Stocks here are light.

Oats advanced on account of assertions that the seven chief producing states would have one-third less to sell this season than the preceding.

Packers buying through commission houses gave provisions an upturn after early weakness due to a liberal run of hogs.

Following were the quotations on the Chicago exchange today:

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 23.—The cotton market was moderately depressed today by the profit-taking operations of buyers of the earlier part of the week. At times some short selling was in evidence, based on favorable crop accounts, but the bulk of offerings came from the long side. Fluctuations were narrow and no time did the market display the activity that was seen in the last half of yesterday's session.

On the opening the tone was steady and prices were one point down to one point up, compared with the final prices of yesterday. Cables were better than due, but rains in the eastern half of the belt were regarded as likely to relieve drouth and offset bullish influences. Again, bulls were profit-takers as soon as the market opened. Short sellers were cautious because of the low temperatures in the belt generally. At the highest in the early trading prices were 2 points over yesterday's close, after this slight rise the market fell off gradually until in the afternoon it was 5 to 8 points under yesterday's final quotations. Talk of too much rains in the central belt helped the market steady at a decline. The close was steady at a net loss of 5 to 7 points.

In the last several years Peachtree Ferry road has begun to rival Peachtree street as a boulevard, and has constructed on it some of the handsomest residences in the city or vicinity.

An indication of the spread of the demand for country home sites on other roads is the announcement of a purchase on Howell Mill road.

LOST AND FOUND

THAT LOST ARTICLE MAY NOT BE FOUND TODAY

Or tomorrow or next week. In fact, a month or more may elapse before it turns up. A little persistency may be necessary. Often the article remains unfound, often fear of prosecution or hope of a more satisfactory reward may delay the restoration. Then, suddenly, the awakening of the finder's conscience explains many delays. But persistency and Constitution wants will usually recover a lost article if an honest person finds it. The service of The Constitution Lost and Found Bureau is also entitled in behalf of advertisers.

"OH, SELL THE BLAMED THING."

Pa barked a shin on a rocking chair. Been in the way for several years. The chair wasn't needed. And there was really no room for it anywhere in the house.

"HOW?"

Asked mother. "I don't know of anyone who wants to buy the chair, and I don't feel like giving it away. It cost us money, and it's almost as good as new."

"USE THE CONTITUTION'S CLASSIFIED,"

Said pa. "Other people are buying, selling and exchanging through that paper. They would not be paying good, hard-earned money for want ads if they didn't do some good. Here's a dollar; try it out"—

AND MOTHER DID.

She described that rocking chair fully, in plain terms, and phoned the ad to this paper. Next day the chair was sold.

"I want to bear testimony to the value of The Constitution as an advertising medium.

We ran one ad in the classified columns one time soliciting the services of high-grade traveling salesmen in the southern field.

We received some sixty letters, coming from Florida, Alabama, South Carolina and Tennessee, and had over sixty personal calls.

The high character of those answering the ad indicates clearly the character of The Constitution's readers. I feel it would not be fair to let this pass without writing you."

REAL ESTATE—FOR SALE AND RENT REAL ESTATE—FOR SALE AND RENT

SIX NEW BUNGALOWS AND SIXTEEN BUILDING LOTS AT AUCTION THIS AFTERNOON

Saturday, May 24, 3 P. M.

IN THE TENTH WARD, on Warner Street and Allene and Woodrow Avenues. Just two blocks from the splendid car service to East Point, College Park and Hapeville. Also convenient to the Stewart Avenue car line.

THIS PROPERTY is in a rapidly-growing section, close to the new $40,000 "Adair" Public School, and only two blocks from Adair Park.

ONE of Atlanta's best citizens, Mr. I. N. Ragsdale, has developed this property, sparing neither time nor money to bring this property to a point of desirability that would make it acceptable to the better class of citizens for homes.

WITH this purpose uppermost in mind, he has built six very attractive bungalows. Built them of good material and with day labor, exercising good taste and rare good judgment in all the details of arrangement and construction. These are not the usual "built to sell" affairs.

EACH HOUSE has a small loan, which the purchaser assumes as part of the price. The balance will be paid in small monthly payments without interest. A small cash payment will be required, ranging from $100 to $250. This is an unusually easy arrangement that should appeal to every buyer of a home.

THE LOTS will be sold on very easy terms, with 6 per cent simple interest.

THE LOTS lie particularly well, many of them having nice shade. They will make desirable and valuable home sites. Several of them have the added value of two street fronts.

Take East Point or College Park cars. Get off at Gammages. A big sign will direct you to the property. Get plats from

COTTON THE PAST WEEK REVIEW OF THE MARKET

New York, May 23.—The cotton market has shown continued activity today with prices losing part of yesterday's gain under realizing or a renewal of bear pressure. The close was steady, but at a net decline of 6 to 9 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 6 points on May, but generally 1 to 2 points under the closing figures of last night during the early trading. Cables were about a point better than due, but the weather map pointed to clearing conditions in the Mississippi valley, while there were further showers in eastern sections, and there was evidently a considerable disposition to take profits on long cotton following yesterday's sharp advance. On the other hand, there was continued covering as well as a considerable demand for new crops from foreign sources, while houses with Memphis and New Orleans connections also seemed to be buying. This support proved sufficient to check the decline, and after the publication of detailed weather reports showing further rains during the past 24 hours in the central belt, prices rallied to about the closing figures of last month. Liverpool, however, appeared to be selling considerable July on this advance, which eased the position of shorts in that delivery and the market later turned easier on rather a bearish view of the weak-end figures and the more favorable averages of weather and crop reports. Closing prices were steadied by covering, but were within a point or two of the lowest. The weekly figures showed rather a lighter into-sight movement than expected, but spinners' takings were small compared with last year, and the shrinkage in the world's supply of American was relatively light.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

ker agent of the Western and Atlantic railroad, has bought from the Provident Trust company a large wooded tract of land at the corner of Howell Mill road and the Collier road, and diagonally across the former road from the residence of Smith D. Pickett, and near the T. B. Felder residence. The consideration is withheld. The lot fronts 640 feet on the Collier road by 600 feet on Howell Mill road, and it is all heavily timbered. The electric railroad line will be extended to this point on the Howell Mill road soon. It is understood that Mr. Harman is now having plans drawn for the erection of a residence on his new property, which is one of the prettiest building sites around Atlanta.

Washington Street Resale.

Montefiore Selig, who recently sold No. 445 Washington street for Mrs. Carrie Mayer to E. W. Bigham for a consideration of $8,125, has resold the property to a client whose name is withheld. The consideration in the resale was $8,750.

Tracks for Manufacturing Sites.

There is a proposition now being taken up with the Southern railway for the construction of spur tracks paralleling Marietta street, for the purpose of encouraging the locating of manufacturing establishments along the street. The recent straightening of the street the rectifying of the grade and widening the street has made of Marietta street an ideal location for such enterprises and railroad facilities such as are now proposed are all that is needed.

The proposition is the construction of a double spur track from the main line of the Southern at the intersection of Simpson street, and the extension of the tracks for a distance of about a block and a half in a westerly direction.

Today's Auction Sale.

An interesting auction sale scheduled for this afternoon is that by W. E. Treadwell & Co. and Foster & Robson of six new bungalows, a two-story house and sixteen residence lots in Oakland City.

These parcels front on Warner street and Woodrow and Allene avenues. They will be sold on easy terms of small cash payments and balance in monthly notes. A feature of the sale of the bungalows will be that the monthly installments on these purchases will be without interest.

The property is a new residence addition, improved and placed on the market by I. N. Ragsdale. The lots lie in a pretty and desirable part of the city, and have all modern conveniences.

The property lies two blocks east from Gammage crossing, on the East Point and College Park car lines.

J. W. Ferguson & Son will be the auctioneers.

FORMER ATLANTA WOMAN SENTENCED

Macon, Ga. May 23.—(Special.)—Mrs. Francis Tedder, formerly of Atlanta, who was acquitted here last fall of the charge of murdering her husband, was today sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary for picking the pocket of W. F. Kersey several months ago.

The fact that she was recommended to the mercy of the court was all that saved her from a longer term.

Mrs. Tedder is alleged to have "doped" Kersey and relieved him of $175.

WOMAN DROWNS BABY AND THEN FIRES HOME

Toledo, Ohio, May 23.—Mrs. Jerome Harris drowned her 4-months-old son in a cistern at her residence today. The woman then saturated the bedding with gasoline, locked all doors and set fire to the house.

Mrs. Harris and three other children were within. Eight soldiers broke in and extinguished the fire. The woman is 29 years old, and was discharged a month ago from a hospital for the insane.

FALLING TEMPERATURE PREDICTED FOR TODAY

In Spite of Drouth Rainfall for May Now Only Slightly Below Normal.

Cool and fair weather for today and possibly tomorrow is promised Atlanta, with a return to normal spring weather by Monday. In the meantime the temperatures are due to range from 50 to 70 degrees instead of from 60 to 80 degrees, as for the past week.

The change to slightly cooler weather was felt yesterday afternoon, and proved one of the most refreshing changes in the weather since spring came on. It was not cool enough to make anyone feel uncomfortable, and with the light summer suits that practically all of masculine Atlanta has adopted for the season the cool air was only invigorating.

The final heavy rainfall for several days came Friday morning when .91 inches poured upon the city within the space of little more than an hour. A terrific downpour at 7 o'clock on the evening previous had added .87 inches to the rainfall for May and to the record of rain for the month is 3.10 inches.

The normal or average amount of rain that falls in May is 3.40 inches, so that already despite the extreme drouth of the earlier part of the month, practically as much rain as usually falls in May has already come.

Farmers all over the state are rejoicing in the heavy rains which have fallen within the past week, and with new impetus added to the growing crops conditions are becoming more and more favorable.

RALPH COCHRAN MAKES COMMENCEMENT SPEECH

Ralph O. Cochran, representative-elect from Fulton county, and candidate for the United States senate to succeed Hoke Smith in 1914, delivered the commencement address at the exercises closing the public school at Palmetto last night.

Palmetto is Mr. Cochran's home town, and there was a large crowd to hear him. Mr. Cochran emphasized the need of specialized education and the value of character as the main elements in success. "Our republic is founded upon the character of each individual, and, in the final analysis, responsible for all achievement is the individual and the daily life that he lives."

Edgar F. Williams.

Edgar F. Williams, 10 months old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Williams, died at the parents' residence, 71 Whitehall street, Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The funeral will be from the residence at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Interment will be at West View.
